"TWAIN" SINKING RAPIDLY

REDDING, Ct., April 20.—Mark Twain, the world's greatest humorist, is dying. He failed rapidly this forenoon, and it was stated at his home that "He might live the day out."

Fully realizing the odds against him, the aged humorist is courteously facing the unknowable, and even as his physical strength palpably fails there are bright flashes of his wit in his speech with his physicians and nurses. But all about him feel that the end is near.

To-day he is reported by Dr. Robert H. Halsey of New York, his constant attendant, as being comfortable, but perceptibly weaker.

Mr. Clemens is still in perfect possession of all his faculties, and when his weakness permits speech his utterances are bright and cheery.

The presence at Stormfield of his favorite daughter, Clara, wife of Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the Russian pianist, who arrived at Stormfield on Sunday, after a hasty journey from Europe is a great comfort to the aged humorist.

Mrs. Gabrilowitsch, who is deeply devoted to her father, is his almost constant companion during his waking hours.

Besides Dr. Halsey two trained nurses, who were brought from New York, are with the sick man.

DAUGHTER'S DEATH A CRUSHING BLOW TO NOTED HUMORIST

Following the sudden death of his daughter in a bath at Redding, Ct., Mark Twain's health began to decline rapidly shortly after that he again went to Bermuda in search of health.

Just before last Christmas he had returned from the South, and when he was helped from the steamer in New York on December 20 he appeared very feeble.

When some of the newspaper boys tried to bring his spirits and get a merry quip from him as of old, he smiled and said with a pulmative note in his voice:

"I can't, boys; I'm not my old self any more. I have a fearful pain here."

He placed his hand over his right breast in the region of the lungs.

Three days later at his home at Redding, Ct., the journal gave out this statement that bore all his characteristic optimism:

"I hear the newspapers say I am dying. The charge is not true. I would not do such a thing at my time of life. I am behaving as good as I can. Merry Christmas to everybody.

MARK TWAIN."

Again the humorist was compelled to seek the softer climate of the Bermudas, and he sat back there on Tuesday of last week. He was suffering from heart trouble and had to be carried from the boat in a chair. His vitality was very low.

When a newspaper man asked the humorist how he felt his reply was so low that he could hardly be said. He said:

"Pretty tough, isn't it?"

He was taken to a train in New York and made the journey to his Connecticut home.

Mark Twain's daughter, Mrs. Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the wife of the noted pianist, reached this side of the water on Saturday and went to the bedside of her father. Last Sunday he seemed to be somewhat improved. The next day he had a relapse and his physicians were hurriedly summoned. It was then about, though, that his condition was grave. His daughter cheered him very much, however, as the days passed.

MRS. JEFFRIES BARS DELANEY

CHICAGO, April 20.—Jack Johnson to-day confirmed the report that Billy Delaney will have charge of him in training for the fight with Jim Jeffries. The big negro, who expects to leave for San Francisco to-morrow night, said to-day:

"The deal with Delaney will probably be closed ... I reach the coast. We have always been good friends and Billy will be of great help to me in putting out he finishing touches for preparation."

There is no love lost between Delaney and Jeffries. It is known that the famous manager has taken some of the cleverest developed into a champion ever since Jeffries came out of retirement.

The real cause of the break, it is said, is that Mrs. Jeffries, the wife of the manager to her husband, does not like Delaney.

FISHING SCHOONER STRIKES LEDGE

HYANNIS, April 20.—The Boston fisherman Thomas Brundage, bound out for the fishing grounds off Nantucket Shoals, is aground on a rocky ledge between Point Gammon and Bishop and Clerk's Light, where she had stranded. The wind is light from the south and the vessel is believed not to be in danger of breaking.

RUTH WHEELER DEATH TRIAL SENSATION

Youth Accused of Slaying Girl and Burning Body Quails as Evidence Is Given Destroying His Defence.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The first break in the alibi of Albert Wolter, accused of the murder of fifteen-year-old Ruth Wheeler, whom he lured to his room by an advertisement, came to-day.

It was a complete surprise to the defence, and Wolter, who up to this time has smiled at the efforts of the prosecution, sat limp throughout her testimony.

The witness in the case was Jennie Fischer, the girl who sold the paint and brush with which Wolter is alleged to have painted the fireplace in his room after having burned the girl alive.

OBJECTIONS FAIL TO SHAKE GIRL'S STORY.

The girl, whom the defence believed is a sickly fashion at the girl who had part California identified Wolter as the purchaser of the materials on the day of the murder and also was positive of her identification of the paint and brush.

Attorney Scott for the defence did his best to have the girl's testimony kept from the record, but was overruled at every point.

Wolter appeared much shaken. He fell into his chair limply.

Assistant District Attorney Moss, questioning Miss Fischer, led her to tell how, while clerk in a 5 and 10-cent store, she sold a can of paint and a brush to Wolter on March 27, the day of the murder.

She identified both. They were found in Wolter's room, near the fireplace, in which Ruth Wheeler's body was partly incinerated. In identifying Wolter she said recalled him "because he squinted his eyes as he spoke."

Attorney Scott attempted to get her to say that she had abandoned her trip to California against her will, having decided here to testify. She declared that she had willingly changed her plans.

When she was excused Wolter smiled in

Legrand L. Dutcher, the twenty-year-old son of Surrogate Clerk A. J. Dutcher of Utica, N. Y., was unable to get a marriage license in Boston to-day to wed seventeen-year-old Marian Wright of Syracuse, with whom he has been registered at the United States Hotel since yesterday as "L. L. Dutcher and wife, New York."

Dutcher applied to-day at the registry of births, deaths and marriages, Old County House building, for a license to wed the girl. When he told the clerk she was only seventeen the license was refused, unless Dutcher could furnish the consent of Miss Wright's parents.

Mr. Dutcher returned to the hotel and told this to the girl who said: "I suppose I must telegraph home for permission. I don't believe they'll give it to me. We will have to go somewhere else. There must be some place in this country where mutual love can be united."

Dutcher said they would go to Nashua, N. H.

Dispatches to-day from Syracuse show that the parents feel bitterly toward her. Her father, Frederick A. Wright, is quoted as saying:

"I would not give fifteen cents to bring Marian back. I shall prefer no charges of abduction against Dutcher. I am not interested in what Marian is doing."

Dutcher's father, the Utica Surrogate clerk, is more wicked, however. He said to-day:

"I am sure that Legrand and Miss Wright will be married if they have not been married already. She is said to be a nice girl. I have no objection to the match. But I think the girl's mother was a fool trick."

Dutcher returned to be married by the Rev. Charles A. Fulton, D. D., pastor of the Dudley Street Baptist Church, who performed the ceremony from Utica.

Miss Wright looked hardly over fifteen when she took her bridegroom's arm. She wore a traveling gown of blue, with a lace

"SILENT" SMITH'S WIDOW SOON TO WED

LONDON, April 20.—On excellent authority it is announced that a marriage has been arranged and will shortly take place between Mrs. Janet Henry Smith (Olivet Smith) and Burton Van Voorhis. Mrs. Smith is at present in Paris, while Van Voorhis is in London, stopping at A. J. Drexel's house in Grosvenor square.

SHAWS' CHILD, CENTRAL FIGURE IN DIVORCE CASE

ELDREDGE SHAW.

Mrs. Nettie F. Shaw, wife of former Senator James F. Shaw, on the witness stand at Salem to-day in her suit for divorce, in which she alleges cruel and abusive treatment, declared that her husband used profane language to her continually, shed decred when he looked at her and never showed her any affection.

Mrs. Shaw was dressed in a blue suit. The court room was filled and many fashionably gowned women lent color to the scene. Fourteen witnesses were sworn, including H. Fisher Eldredge, Mrs. Shaw's father. Mrs. Shaw was the second witness on the stand, following Dr. George W. Blaisdell of Manchester-by-the-Sea, who last June attended Mrs. Shaw when she was suffering from hysteria.

Suit Not Contested.

When Dr. Blaisdell had finished his direct testimony Judge Morton inquired if there was any cross-examination.

"There is nobody here to cross-examine him," replied Lawyer Elbridge R. Anderson.

It thus became apparent that the suit of Mrs. Shaw was not to be contested.

"I was married," began Mrs. Shaw in her testimony, "in June, 1895, to James F. Shaw. The ceremony was performed at Portsmouth. I am now residing at Chatham with my father. I have lived since my marriage in Boston, Brookline and at Manchester. I lived in Boston until 1907 when I left my husband."

"What did your family consist of then?" Lawyer Anderson asked.

"I had one son, Eldridge, who will be thirteen the thirtieth day of next June."

"What was your husband's demeanor to ward you?"

"He was cruel to me previous to the birth of Eldredge. He swore at me. My first child was born in Montreal, and at that time my husband did little for my comfort. The child subsequently died."

Swore at Her—Shuddered.

"What was the condition of your health previous to your marriage?"

"I was always in good health. I never suffered then from nervousness."

Mrs. Shaw said that after the birth of Eldredge she became nervous. She said that her husband was cold and that he disliked affection.

In describing recent years," testified Mrs. Shaw, "my husband swore at me continually and insulted me. When our third child was born my husband did not want to look at me, and when he did he muttered curses. He would say to the effect to get out of the way! 'He was never fond of the child."

H. Keno Marble in Court.

Since the withdrawal, on Monday of the most serious allegations in the cross libel brought by Mrs. Shaw against her husband following the institution of her suit for divorce, much speculation was indulged in as to what the result would be.

It was finally agreed that the libel of Mrs. Shaw would be presented, in which the charges of cruel and abusive treatment, and that former Senator Shaw would not contest the action.

By this proceeding the testimony that would have made a great sensation in society would have been very unpleasant for the parties both sides would have suffered.

H. Fisher Eldredge, the father of Mrs. Shaw, accompanied by counsel, arrived here eleven minutes in the room who were ready to be called to support the story of cruel and abusive treatment. Among others in court was H. Keno Marble, the former canvasser of the Shaws, with whom Mrs. Shaw is alleged to have committed the charge of kidnaping her twelve-year-old son. Chief of Police H. B. Ross, who made the arrest of Mrs. Shaw, was also in the court room.

It was understood that Mrs. Shaw, in return for her husband's agreement not to push the case against her, would not contest his right to the custody of their son and that he would bring him up, and educate him, allowing the mother certain rights to see him.

LOOTED BANK TRUSTEE CADY TAKES BLAME

"If the members of this committee should report that I had been negligent in my duties as a trustee of the Southbridge Savings Bank, I could not take exceptions to the statement," said Herbert C. Cady, superintendent and director of the American Optical Company, to-day, at the last public hearing of the legislative committee investigating the looting of the Southbridge Bank of almost half a million dollars by Treasurer John A. Hall. "I see plainly that I did not attend to my duties as I should have, but I thought that the bank examiners made a thorough examination of the bank."

The hearing was held at the State House.

Wells Can't Come Now.

Charles W. Hill, a trustee for eighteen years, testified that most of the trustees of the bank relied upon the bank examiners' investigation, believing that they would have discovered any dishonesty. He further stated that he did not realize what a terrible fault of the bank meant before the investigation of the committee.

A letter was read by Chairman White of the committee which said that George W. Wells, president of the American Optical Company and a trustee of the bank would not be able to be present at the hearing to-day, as he was in Florida with his sick wife, but that he would return to Southbridge April 25 and would be pleased to give the committee any assistance in his power.

Depositor Blames Examiner.

F. F. Plimpton of Somerville, a depositor of the bank and former resident of Southbridge, said that in his opinion the Bank Commissioners' Department should be blamed for the looting of the bank. He also says that the statement made by one of the examiners at the last hearing clearly showed that the examination was good for nothing. He declared that the examiners should have taken the matter up with the Governor to correct this fault in the system of bank examination and that the Legislature would have immediately remedied it. The present examination he said was good for nothing. Mr. Plimpton said that in talking with twenty to twenty-five depositors he had not found one satisfied with the way the matter was handled by the examiners, but that they all blamed the bank examiners. He ended by saying that he understood that the State had this department to protect the depositors.

At an executive session held after the hearing the committee voted to hold no more public hearings and to file its report with the Legislature April 26.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, April 20.—The cleaning skies brought a drove of fans up to the grounds. Several hundred more who were suffering from heart disease brought on by the finish of yesterday afternoon's game were not allowed to leave their homes by their physicians. If those kind of finishes keep up the Red Sox will play to empty benches by order of the Board of Health.

No team in the world felt finer than the Red Sox did to-day when the players came on the field. Nothing like the right kind of victory to make the boys feel good. As for pitchers Manager Dugovan had plenty of them in shape to go the route. There was Charlie who said he wanted to get a crack at his former team mates, and Frank Arellanes who wanted to retrieve that defeat handed him in New York and Eddie Karger and Ray Collins, the left-handers, who pray to Dooner if it wasn't about time a southpaw got a chance in the box. Chief Meyer and others on the outskirts of the crow of pitchers demanded recognition and to make a long story short Dooner had his hands full making a selection for this afternoon's battle.

PARSONS' ESTATE WORTH $130,000

In the Probate Court for Norfolk County, held at Dedham, Judge James J. Flint presiding, William E. Parsons of Brookline was appointed administrator of the estate of his father, John Parsons, who died intestate on March 31. The estate is valued at $40,000 real and $90,000 personal. The heirs are Sarah A. Parsons of No. 32 Marion street, Brookline, widow; Charles C. Parsons of No. 124 Winthrop road, Brookline, and William E. Parsons, the administrator, sons of deceased.

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., April 20.—The management made another effort to pry open the Polo Grounds season this afternoon. Twice postponed on account of rain the opening was still on deck ready for the word. The decorations were somewhat disfigured, and the grounds turf was soft from the copious downpours.

The Giants and the Doves were well rested. They had not played a game since Saturday when they met in Boston. The lineups prepared by the managers for Monday's opening still stood on the score cards, and it was expected that the same men who opened the season in Boston last Thursday would face each other to-day. Mattern and Ames, pitchers and Smith and Schiel, catchers.

The weather was clear to-day and the crowd began moseing toward the scene of action at an early hour. Indications were that a big crowd would be on hand to start the Giants off for the season.

Manager Lake and his players arrived at the grounds early and put in a long practice session to loosen up the kinks in their systems. The three-day wet spell had stiffened them up somewhat. The giants, too, were out in uniform early and for more than an hour before the game the field was alive with players.

"MUTT AND JEFF" ARE LIVELY FIRE HORSES

LOWELL, April 20.—Mutt and Jeff are in Lowell to-day. They have been, for that matter, for nearly three weeks, but to-day Jeff got funny on the Nerving got in its work. Mutt and Jeff of Lowell are two mighty fine horses. They were exhibited fire station here. They were exhibited or showed those popular names the day the firemen saw them. That seemed to fill the pair with ginger, for since then they have been as mettlesome as two-year-olds.

WOOD ALCOHOL POISON FOUND IN VICTIMS

WESTERLY, R. I., April 20.—Medical Examiner Morgan received a report to-day from Professor William P. Whitney of the Harvard Medical School that traces of wood alcohol had been found in the stomach of Daniel W. Sullivan, one of the wood alcohol poison victims. Professor Whitney also found traces of wood alcohol in whiskey from which Sullivan had been drinking just before he died.

Thomas J. Bannon, the druggist at whose store the whiskey is alleged to have been purchased, was arraigned to-day on charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance. He furnished cash bail.

Bannon has already been indicted on this charge, following the investigation into thirteen deaths, said to have been caused from wood alcohol. The complete report of the Grand Jury is expected to-day or to-morrow.

BASEBALL PITCHER FATALLY STRICKEN

IPSWICH, April 20.—Carleton Gammons, eighteen years old, of Clintondale, died at the point of death at a private hospital here as the result of an attack of heart failure while he was pitching in a baseball game between the Ipswich High School and the Lynn Burbeck College at the Cross street playgrounds yesterday.

Gammons was pitching an unusually strong game for Burbeck, when suddenly in the fifth inning as the ball left his hand for the batter he fell to the ground and rolled about in an agony of pain.

DEATH IN FIRE AT POOR FARM

RUTLAND, Vt., April 20.—One man was burned to death in a fire early to-day, which destroyed the county poor farm at West Rutland. The victim of the fire was Michael Mojian, who was over seventy years old and very deaf. He could not be awakened in time to escape from the burning building.

There were fourteen men and women in the main building, of which eleven were inmates of the place and the rest employes. All fled in their night clothing and took refuge at nearby farmhouses. Many of the men and women are very old and infirm.

All of the barns and buildings of the farm were destroyed. The loss will be about $50,000. It is not known how the fire started.

GAYNOR APOLOGIZES FOR POLICE ACTS

NEW YORK, April 20.—Mayor Gaynor apologized to Coroner Schwannecke of the Bronx on behalf of the city and the police department, for the action of Lieutenant McAuliffe in causing his arrest while he was completing an inquest in the victims' house. He then ordered Lieutenant McAuliffe's suspension and directed that he be tried on Friday and dismissed from the force. The officer explained he arrested the coroner for talking too loud to a woman.

HELD ON DEATH OF HIS SISTER

Twenty-year-old Joseph Downey was held in $2,000 by Judge John Perrin, Jr., in the West Roxbury District Court to-day for a continued hearing to-morrow on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of his sister, Agnes Downey, two years his senior. According to the police version, there was a quarrel yesterday at the Downey home between Joseph Downey and his younger brother, Thomas. In the clinch between the two brothers, the police declare, Agnes interfered and received a blow of kick that resulted in her death.

On the other hand, Medical Examiner Timothy S. Leary, who made a superficial examination of the girl's body last night, said that there was no exterior trace of violence.

Martin Downey, a third son of the family, dropped dead of heart trouble five years ago while watching a boxing contest. Dr. Leary will hold an autopsy.

The Downeys live at No. 15 Meehan street, Roxbury. The father and younger brother are held as witnesses.

LOWELL LICENSES ARE GRANTED TO-DAY

LOWELL, April 20.—Lowell is another city which will be exempt from the operations of the bar and bottle bill this year, it is thought. To-day the license board granted ninety-four licenses of the first and fourth classes, to take effect May 1.

GIRL SLAYER UNMOVED AS VICTIM'S MOTHER TELLS TRAGEDY STORY

ties which were plainly evident even after it had been exhumed at Maple Grove Cemetery in Richmond Hill.

In spite of the apparent confidence of his attorney it was believed to-day that Walter would collapse before the trial was over. The nervousness he displayed yesterday increased in court to-day.

The jury was picked in record time and Judge Foster seemed pleased.

"You may open when you are ready, Mr. District Attorney," said the Judge politely, and just as quietly Mr. Moss began his plea for the State.

All the time Mr. Moss was describing the crime and linking the life of Walter Wheeler together in a solid chain, Walter sat perfectly still. He did not look at Mr. Moss; he was watching the jurymen. Not once did he show the slightest trace of feeling of any sort, save to lift his upper lip from his teeth in an occasional grin when his attorney spoke to him.

Mother Tells Her Story.

Then Mrs. Emily Wheeler, mother of the dead girl, was called to the stand. She told of the last time she saw her daughter, Ruth Wheeler. She remembered that it was a cloudy day and recalled that she had handed Ruth her umbrella. The umbrella was shown to her for identification, whereupon Attorney Scott arose with a vigorous protest.

Thereafter he remained on his feet stopping out the same objections to nearly all the questions. Mr. Moss produced a small wooden box containing the necklace of turquoise beads which was found about the neck of the remains of Ruth Wheeler.

"Where did you see this last?" asked Mr. Moss.

"It was on my girl's neck when she left home," whispered the mother, closing her eyes to keep back the tears. Mrs. Wheeler identified some hair as being similar to that of her daughter, Scott firing in his objections in every second.

Mr. Moss stated to the court that it would take two days to present his case to the court. The jury was not locked up.

Albert Wolter is taking keen and intelligent interest in every move in the great drama upon which his life depends. From the very start he plainly demonstrated that he was going to have a hand in everything.

Insists on Jury of Fathers.

Before the first talesman was called for examination Wolter told his counsel that he was determined so far as possible to have none but men who are fathers to sit in judgment on the charge which is formally placed against him. Single men were looked over and challenged by Wolter's counsel as a matter of his instruction. He practically chose his own jury, and during each examination he was continually coaching over and interpreting his counsel just what questions to ask. Then he himself directed whether to accept or reject the panman.

In consequence of his plan the first two men accepted by the defense to serve on the jury were men whose answers showed that they are fathers of girls about the age of the murdered girl.

The questions and attitude of Assistant District Attorney Moss and Scott, who are defending Wolter, showed that during their conferences he had evidently won them over to his belief that for his own sake futures of daughters of the age of Ruth Wheeler would be better fitted to try the case and find a verdict from the evidence.

Attitude of Lawyers Changed.

The attitude of the lawyers toward their client was entirely different from what it had been on the previous sessions since the trial began. There was no more bickering and fault-finding, and instead of being antagonistic the two attorneys seemed to do everything that they could to make it easy for fathers of young women to be placed in the jury box accepted by the defense for the issue of life and death which is joined.

As before, the largest number of persons in the court room were women. They crowded to the court house long before the outer doors, even, were thrown open and when these swung back a struggling crowd, almost altogether women, fought their way into the court house and up to the very doors of the court room where the trial is being conducted.

CROKER RAPS POLICE GRAFT

NEW YORK, April 20. Richard Croker sailed away on the Lusitania to-day, but before he left he, for the first time, expressed his opinion on the political situation in New York city and what he had to say was regarded as being directed sharply against Charles F. Murphy.

"The way to establish real reform in the city governments," said Mr. Croker, "is to stop the graft in the police department. This graft is the outcome, chiefly, of protection afforded the liquor dealers so that they may violate the law.

"It is because of what Mayor Gaynor has done along this line that I have a certain admiration for him.

"As to the general political situation I believe that there is great change going on in the minds of the people and the result of this change in conviction will determine the political outcome of the very near future. There is great discontent among the people.

"The defeat of Aldridge for Congress is one of the indications, I believe, of what is to be expected generally in the near future. Aldridge, as a matter of fact, was defeated before the vote was taken. I believe that the Democratic chances in the country are now brilliant and that a Democratic Congress is now one of the possibilities."

CHARLES H. WATSON, BANKER, DIED TO-DAY

Charles Herbert Watson, the Boston banker and partner in the banking house of Estabrook & Co., died at his home in Brookline to-day. An operation for appendicitis had been performed at the Homeopathic Hospital. He was fifty-four years old. Mr. Watson was a native of Boston and was graduated from the English High School. He entered the former banking house of Brewster, Bennett & Co. He was made a partner when the firm became Brewster, Cobb & Estabrook & Co. in 1883. The house became Estabrook & Co. in 1896. Mr. Watson leaves a wife, two sons and a daughter. The funeral will take place at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the house.

SOMERVILLE Y. M. C. U. GIVES BRIGHT PLAY

Members of the Y. M. C. U. of Somerville are to-day congratulating the students in the class of elocution upon the unusual merit and accomplishment shown in the entertainment in Y. M. C. U. Hall last night. Under Professor Irwin Lewis Potter the Y. M. C. U. pupils have made splendid progress. The entertainment, which was attended by a crowd which filled the hall, opened with physical culture exercises, followed by two recitations, a pantomime, a recitation and a playlet by Conan Doyle, entitled "Confederates." In this play the work of Mrs. Mary Doten Walker and Mr. Moffitt had the real professional touch, while that of the Misses Feldman, Parker, Bryant, Proboska, Andrews, Clarke and Beckman received hearty applause.

STRIKE OF IRON WORKERS SETTLED

The strike of the iron workers on a grain elevator being erected on Marginal street, East Boston, has been settled. The strike started April 12 over the employment of non-union men by the New England Structural Company, sub-contractors employed by Witherspoon & Engler. Over 300 were affected. Arthur M. Huddell, business agent of the Central Labor Union, building trades department, states that from now on union conditions will be in force on the work.

LOST KING'S COUSIN FOUND AS LABORER

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., April 20.—Count Robert de Colmer, the missing cousin of the King of Saxony, has been found at work for the Tulon Oil Company. The reunion between him and the Countess de Colmer, his mother, was pathetic. She had lost trace of her son for seven years and had made repeated trips to Moron by automobile to get trace of him.

New Antelope Is Named Roosevelt.

LONDON, April 20.—Edmund Heller, the zoologist of Riverside, Cal., who accompanied Mr. Roosevelt on his African hunting trip, has decided that the sable antelope killed by Kermit Roosevelt, is a new species, peculiar to the Mouloasa region and not heretofore described. It will be named the Roosevelt.

Pope Receives Pilgrims.

ROME—The Pope to-day received a band of pilgrims from Hungary and delivered an address at the audience, in which he urged the pilgrims "to persevere against the enemies of the church." The visitors brought St. Peter's mite.

Our "Rembrandts" Forgeries.

PARIS—Henri Rochefort, who is an authority on paintings, writing of Count de Gatigny and of the subject of paintings generally, warns Americans against buying paintings from pretended ancient but impoverished families. He says the chances are a thousand to one that the pictures were manufactured in the Butte Montmartre. "In the United States alone there are 2,500 Rembrandts, of which certainly more than 2,000 are absolute forgeries," he says.

Big Prices for Bronzes.

LONDON—The sale of the late Isaac Falcon's collection of art objects has begun at Christie's. The first day's sale was limited to bronzes, which realized $119,594. For the statue "Monger Seated on a Tree Stump," an example of fifteenth century work, $4,957 was paid, for "The Head of the Fountain," Venetian sixteenth century, $19,926 was realized.

Paulhan's New Record.

PARIS M. Paulhan has accomplished the concluding stage of the longest journey ever made with an aeroplane by flying forty miles from Acrisur-Aube to Chalons-sur-Marne. The total distance covered by the combined flights of MM. Farman and Paulhan is 220 miles, and the time consumed in actual travel was five hours.

SUFFRAGE FLAG CAUSES A ROW

LYNN, April 20.—Because she refused to haul down the "woman's suffragist standard" flying from her home in honor of Patriots' Day, even when the police commanded her to do so, Mrs. Susanna W. Berry may be summoned to appear into the police court, formerly presided over by her late husband, Judge Berry. Deputy Chief Bartlet is having a conference this afternoon with City Solicitor Wedlegh.

Deputy Chief Bartlet says:

"We may summon Mrs. Berry into court. I consider the flag she raised as representing Old Glory, and as such she is liable to a fine."

ROOSEVELT IS SPEEDING OVER ALPS TO PARIS

PARIS, April 20.—As Theodore Roosevelt is speeding toward Paris on the Orient express from Budapest, crossing the Austrian Alps and Southern Germany, all Paris is on the qui vive in anticipation of his arrival to-morrow.

Not the coming of all the monarchs of Europe could create more of a stir.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel, who came here from Avignon several days ago, have been quietly entertained, but with the arrival of Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit one of the busiest whirls of its kind Paris has ever seen begins.

Every kind of entertainment has been mapped out, from the most formal of receptions to a trip in an airship. M. Clement, the builder of the dirigible which is soon to attempt a trip to London, has invited Mr. Roosevelt to go up on a trial spin with him.

The committees arranging Mr. Roosevelt's programme have been no more busy than the police. From the time he enters France at Avricourt until he leaves for Brussels a week later, he will be constantly under the guard of the best detectives of the Continent.

In Paris Prefect Lepine has arranged to protect the city's great visitor. Among other things he will have the assistance of the crack secret service men of other nations. The watch on anarchists has been maintained closely for weeks.

When Mr. Roosevelt reaches Paris he will be welcomed by representatives of the municipality and the government. Almost his first move will be to call on President Falleres, who will return the call, and then the busy week will be on in earnest.

Crowds to-day besieged the Sorbonne seeking invitations to the lecture Mr. Roosevelt is to give there. The demand for tickets is a hundred times greater than the supply.

PAPAL NUNCIO IS RECALLED

ROME, April 20.—According to semi-official statements published to-day, the Vatican has taken unusual measures to punish those prelates who showed friendship for Theodore Roosevelt after his refusal to meet the Pope.

These say that Mgr. Pignatelli, the Papal Nuncio at Vienna, who met Mr. Roosevelt there when he called on Ambassador Kerens, has been recalled, and that Abbot Lawrence Janssens has been ordered into retirement in a monastery for three months.

Abbot Janssens, who called on Mr. Roosevelt here and left a card of communication, has already reshined. Mgr. Pignatelli explained after his meeting with Mr. Roosevelt that he had not called on the former President as Nuncio, but had merely accepted the invitation to call on Mr. Kerens, who is a Catholic, and then the host of Mr. Roosevelt.

WINNERS OF HONORS AT COSTUME BALL

Miss Betsy Pollman and Mrs. S. A. Park are sharing the feminine honors to-day of the costume ball given by Henry Allen Lodge, K. of P., last evening. Miss Pollman was awarded the prize for the prettiest costume. She appeared as a Spanish dancer. Mrs. Park's costume took the prize for the funniest worn by the ladies. Other prizes were: Best dressed man, S. A. Park as a troubador; funniest male costume, Isaac Levy as a tramp; special prize to David Coplin as a stage Hebrew. During intermission Master Henry Young sang, accompanied by Miss Vera Young. Eph Hatch contributed songs.

QUICK ACTION PRESCRIPTION CURES COLDS IN A DAY

What is said to be the best and quickest prescription known to medical science for colds and coughs is as follows: "Get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful of this mixture after each meal and at bed time, and note the quick result. This has cured hundreds here. Be sure to get genuine Concentrated Pine. Every druggist the country over can supply it, or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Don't use the weaker pine preparations.

Gould Bride to Spend Honeymoon in Wilds

Nell Brinkley's drawing of Marjorie Gould Drexel and her sister, Edith Gould, the flower girl at the St. Bartholomew's wedding.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The secret as to where Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., and his bride, who was Marjorie Gould, are to spend their honeymoon was dissipated today when it was learned that following their marriage yesterday the couple left for Furlough Lodge, the Catskill Summer home of George J. Gould, father of the bride. This was revealed to-day in spite of the wishes of the couple and their relatives.

After the reception following yesterday's ceremony, Mr. Drexel and his bride slipped away quietly. It had been reported that they were to spend the honeymoon on Mr. Gould's yacht, the Atalanta. This was denied, however. When they left the reception they went in a hired motor car to the West Shore station in Weehawken and boarded Mr. Gould's private car. At Kingston it was switched to a train bound for Ulster

POLICE QUELL 200 STRIKERS

Sergeant James Pendergast and six officers from Station 11, Dorchester, quelled an uprising among 200 striking Italian section hands at the Harrison Square station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford to-day.

The men started to walk down the tracks from the station to Freeport street when they were intercepted by officials of the road. Several of the strikers threatened men who had returned to work.

MACHINE GUNS IN CUBA REVOLT

HAVANA, April 20.—A revolt is reported to have broken out in Santa Clara province. Although the Government to-day denied the story, a battalion of infantry and a machine gun battery were started post haste last night by special train from Camp Columbia for Santa Clara.

General Rivas commands the expedition. The unrest of the negroes, inflamed by agitators, is serious.

AMERICA A SURPRISE TO LORD KITCHENER

NEW YORK, April 20.—Viscount Horatio Herbert Kitchener sailed for England to-day on the Lusitania. At his departure the famous warrior declared that he was greatly pleased with America. "It is a wonderful country," he said, "and I'm sorry I couldn't stay here longer. What I have seen was beyond all that I had ever imagined."

BOTTLE BILL PASSES HOUSE

The merry work of keeping the Bar and Bottle bill off the statute books until after the beginning of a new license year on May 1 (if it is to be enacted at all) was continued to-day when the House of Representatives passed the bill "to be enacted" and Representative Andrew J. Doyle of New Bedford, one of its opponents, promptly moved that the vote be "reconsidered."

Under the rules "reconsideration" goes over for one day. The bill will therefore be debated in the House to-morrow all over again. There isn't the ghost of a chance that "reconsideration" will amount to anything more than dragging the bill away from the Senate for one more day. It has had all the readings in the Senate except one final one.

When the measure was reached to-day in the House Mr. Doyle moved to strike out the enacting clause. The motion was defeated, 42 to 76.

Old Earth To-day in Comet-ose Condition

WILLEMSTAD, Curacoa, April 20.—Halley's comet was visible to the naked eye here yesterday.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 20.—Halley's comet was visible here early yesterday in the southeastern horizon. Its light was brilliant and coruscant.

PARIS, April 20.—Halley's comet, sighted by the Paris Observatory, seems to have a considerably enlarged tail, perpendicular to the earth.

ROME, April 20.—The local authorities in several of the provinces, especially in the South and the Islands, have notified the Government that the people are showing great anxiety regarding Halley's comet. The Government has instructed the authorities to allay some means to reassure the people, all scientists agreeing that there is no danger to be feared from the comet.

IRISH LEAGUE TO ELECT.

The annual election of officers of the Boston Central Branch of the United Irish League will take place to-morrow evening at the American House, Augustus J. Daly, the present president of the Central Branch, will preside. After the election, an address on "Commodore Barry" will be delivered by John J. Dillon of Roxbury.

POLICEMEN ARE HELD IN TRAP

LYNN, April 20.—Two Lynn policemen trapped themselves in a closet while waiting for suspected policy men early to-day and had to break down the door to get out. At 4 a. m. Reserve Officers Bill Crowley, John Fader and Ithen W. Sears went to the office building at 2co 160 Market street and secreted themselves in a closet in an office on the third floor, where they suspected the policy men had their headquarters. They locked the closet door on the inside and waited. At 8 o'clock Sears had to go, so he was let out. Crowley and Fader relocked themselves inside the closet. By 9 o'clock the air was so stifling in the closet that the cops had to have fresh air. But the door only would not work and they had to break their way out. Rather than let anyone in the building see them they left via the window and the fire escape.

THOSE SUDDEN STABS IN THE BACK

Are Twinges That Tell You of Hidden, Dangerous Kidney Troubles.

When the kidneys are sick, sharp, darting pains strike you in the back, loins or sides—pains that almost take your breath away, and often make you cry out in agony.

It is almost impossible to mistake these kidney pains, for they seem to center about the small of the back where the kidneys are located.

And still there are many persons who think backache is merely a muscular trouble—something that is expected to pass away with a little rest, aided by a plaster, or by rubbing with liniment.

There is no plaster nor liniment that will reach the inside cause—sick kidneys. What is needed is a kidney medicine—a kidney stimulant, to start the kidneys working as they should—a healing, soothing tonic, to relieve and cure congestion and inflammation in the kidneys.

Sick kidneys cannot get well alone. They need quick help. And if it is not given, the uniform work of the kidneys stops. The filtering of the blood is suspended. Poisons circulate freely with the blood—attack muscles, brain, nerves and vital organs. The kidneys swell and throb, and that is what makes those sudden stabs of pain in the back. You won't be rid of the trouble until the kidneys are cured.

There is no other remedy for sick kidneys quite equal to Doan's Kidney Pills. This simple vegetable formula has been in use for 75 years and has never been excelled because it is a remedy for the kidneys only—does not act on the bowels nor on any other organs. It soothes while it stimulates, relieves all congestion and irritation, cures backache, regulates the urine and restores a perfect filtering of the blood.

BOSTON PROOF.

Marion E. Leech, 326 Tremont st., Boston, Mass., says: "I take pleasure in again recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, and can confirm everything I said in my former public endorsement regarding this valuable remedy. For quite a while I had pains across my back, particularly acute if I stooped or brought any strain on the muscles of my back. Many times I was so lame and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. When I procured Doan's Kidney Pills I was suffering severely, but to my surprise and gratification this remedy cured me. I have since recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many of my friends and acquaintances, and in every instance where they have been used the best of results have followed."

MOVE TO OUST COTTON MEN

NEW YORK, April 20.—While the Government's investigation of The Ball pool in cotton was under way today with Federal Grand Jury in session behind closed doors, a storm was gathering on the floor of the New York Cotton Exchange which threatened to culminate in the expulsion from membership of a big cotton firm which is said to have precipitated Attorney-General Wickersham's activity in hopes of being able to "wreck" out of disinterests unprofitable contracts thereby.

This firm is said to be short more than a thousand bales of cotton which it sold months ago for delivery in May and July, and been unable to buy in the open market.

MINNEHAHA'S CARGO DUMPED

HUGH TOWN, St. Mary's, Scilly Islands, April 20.—The remainder of the cargo of the wrecked steamship Minnehaha has been thrown overboard in the hope that the vessel thus lightened might swamp from the reef upon which she struck and be saved.

Crates of motor cars, typewriters, sewing machines and other valuable merchandise were dumped into the waters.

Many small boats hovered about the wreck picking up the flotsam.

TWO HEROES RESCUE FIVE FROM BLAZE

Mrs. Mary McDonough, seventy-seven years old, mother-in-law of John McDonald, and McDonald's four small children were rescued from a fire at 10:30 today at their home, No. 47 West Dedham street.

Mrs. McDonough was ill in bed on the third floor when the fire was discovered in the stable occupied by Hunter & Ross, piano movers, at No. 97 West Dedham street. McDonald was shaving at the time and saw the flames sweeping across a little alley from the burning stable into his home. He left the house and the stable are separated by a short alley.

He rushed to the bedside of Mrs. McDonough and carried her safely to the street through the blinding, choking smoke, and then dashed back after his children and wife.

In the meantime Charles Ayres, who was near at hand, heard McDonald's cries and ran to his assistance. The two smallest children, Eleanore, aged four, and Leo, aged two, were carried down to the street, where willing hands soon took them to a place of safety.

Ayres ran to the assistance of McDonald and led the other two children down through the smoke. They were John, eight years old and Edward, seven years old. The children were frightened and it was only by hard work on the part of the father they could be quieted and made to follow.

Mrs. McDonald, when she reached the street, just after the children had been taken from the house, found that the savings of several years had been left behind in a bag in a cupboard was nearly $200 and valuable papers.

Ayres, as soon as he could get some idea from the frightened woman where the bag was, dashed up through the smoke that was almost impassable and came down in brief time with the bag of money.

BOY, 7, HELD FOR KILLING HIS LITTLE CHUM

Shivering, crying and with veins on his forehead swollen with emotion, seven-year-old Johnny Bowen was arraigned before Judge Pelmer in the juvenile session of Roxbury District Court today on a charge of murder, in causing the death of little Frankie Gately. He was given in charge of Probation Officer Joan D. Regan, to be brought back into court tomorrow for a continued hearing. Regan gave the lad back to his grief-stricken father.

Morning "I would rather it were my Johnny who is dead than Frankie Gately," Mrs. Daniel Bowen of Roxbury was in consolable today over the death of the four-year-old Gately boy, who was shot and killed yesterday by her little boy.

Mrs. Bowen was prostrated at her home, No. 868 Albany street. She said:

"I would rather it were my Johnny who is dead than Frankie Gately. Johnny will have to grow up with this shadow on his life. I am looking into the future. It is terrible to think of it. They have my poor boy in court now. I do not know what they will do to him. People tell me that I look at this too seriously, but how could it be more serious?"

The seven-year-old lad said between sobs after court adjourned:

"I don't know why I shot Frankie Gately. I don't know. I belonged to a club with Clifford Boyd, Russell Alvarez and the other boys. They had two rifles in the cellar. I had one in my hands when Frankie Gately looked in the cellar window and hollered 'Hello, Bowey.' I wasn't mad, but I told Frankie to get away or I would shoot. I never meant to shoot. I don't know why I pulled the trigger. I am sorry, awful sorry, now."

STEAMSHIP WRECKED; CREW FEARED LOST

NEWCASTLE, N. S. W., April 19.—The steamship Samara crashed on the rocks of Seal Island, off the south coast of Australia, and went down within a few minutes today.

Although the fate of the crew of fifty-five is not known, all hands are believed to have been lost when the vessel went down in the breakers raging over the rocks.

The Samara, whose master was Captain A. Clyde, was a British steamship of 2,030 tons, hailing from Glasgow. Her owners were MacIlay & MacIntyre. She was built in 1901. She was of steel, single screw and had three cylinder, triple expansion engines of 280 horsepower. Her destination was Shanghai.

SHARPENING SAFETY RAZORS A SUCCESS

P. H. MacNeill of No. 169 Congress street, Boston, has inaugurated a method for sharpening safety razor blades by which he guarantees to make them sharper than any new razor blades. He does it all for 25c cents. As an evidence of good faith in this respect he has hundreds of recommendations from prominent State and city officials all over the country. Former Mayor Thurston of Cambridge is so well pleased with his work that he publicly commended him.

RECORD CARGO OF FISH HERE

A million pounds of fish were landed today at "T" Wharf from sixteen vessels. The "Pontiac" is credited with 132,000 pounds, and the steam trawler "Spray" landed the largest catch in its history, which numbered 110,000 pounds.

When the sixteen vessels arrived the opinion was expressed that this was the largest catch in years from this number of vessels. Good prices were received. Cod and haddock largely made up the successful haul.

Fishermen around the wharves are anxiously awaiting the mackerel fleet, which has been for some time off Cape Hatteras.

SPECIAL GIFTS FOR JEWELRY BUYERS

DEMOCRATS SEE GREAT NATIONAL LANDSLIDE IN HAVENS' ELECTION

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Joy and gloom reign in the Democratic and Republican camps in the capital respectively, today, as a result of the election in the thirty-second congressional district of New York yesterday when James S. Haven, Democrat, defeated George W. Aldridge, the Republican boss of Rochester, on overwhelmingly that the latter's friends are still wondering how it happened.

While Republicans in Washington declare that the result has no national significance the Democrats "point with pride" to the election of Representative Eugene N. Foss in Massachusetts a few weeks ago and to Democratic victories in Virginia, Georgia and Missouri, and declare that the Republican party has brought its trouble on itself through failure to keep its campaign pledges concerning the tariff.

Republicans See Defeat.

Representative Fowler of New Jersey, said a Republican loss, even gone so far as to declare that the election of Mr. Havens is a "judgment of God."

"The election of Mr. Havens of Rochester, N. Y., in a normal Republican district is a victory of more than passing result and foretells a victory for us in the coming campaign," said Representative champ Clark of Missouri, minority leader of the house. "I felt certain all along," he continued, "that we would carry that district not because of the effect that would result from the scandals just aired by the Aldrich Legislature, but because it was an opportunity for the people to express themselves on the new tariff law. That was the issue in the campaign according to the platform on which Mr. Havens was nominated and he made his fight on these lines, while Mr. Aldridge, the Republican candidate stood out and indorsed the Payne-Aldrich tariff as the best one ever placed on the statute books."

Protest Over the Tariff.

"I tell you the people will no longer be fooled on the tariff; they know when a revision is upward and not downward. You cannot continue to make them believe the foreigner pays the tax.

"Of course the Republicans will try to believe and make the country believe, too, that the defeat they suffered yesterday was due entirely to the personality of their candidate, who figured in the recent scandal exposed by the New York Legislature, but this won't go. It was the tariff and that is all there is to it."

Representative Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, when asked what he thought of the election of Mr. Havens, said it could be construed but in one way and that was that on the issue of the tariff rebellion downward promised the people by the Republican party the voters in New York had seceded to let the Republicans know that the Payne-Aldrich tariff act is a promise not kept.

The defeat of the Republican candidate, Mr. Lloyd said, cannot but have an influence in every congressional district and it is a forerunner of a Democratic victory next November.

William Jennings Bryan was one of the first to learn of the Democratic landslide. He was dining with Representative Clark of Missouri, James of Kentucky, Hitchcock of Nebraska and Senator Newlands of Nevada when the news came.

"It is a great victory, a wonderful victory," exclaimed Mr. Bryan. "I believe it is a portent of what the country will do this coming Fall. It shows that the people have lost confidence in the Republican party and its pretensions, and I am supremely gratified with the result."

Senator Clay of Georgia, Democrat, said: "I had not expected that the normally Republican majority in that district would be overcome. The election shows beyond question that the next House will be Democratic. If the Democrats act with prudence and intelligence and luminize for the presidency a man of high character, in whom the business interests of the country have confidence, they will have no difficulty in securing complete control of the government."

Republicans Dodging.

One New York Republican who makes no bones about saying "I told you so" is Representative Calder of Brooklyn. When Aldridge was nominated he prophesied that the district would be lost.

Representative McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign, declared that neither the tariff nor any other national question had anything to do with the defeat of Aldridge. "Our committee took no part in the Thirty-second New York District," he said. "The fight was waged on local issues solely."

Senator Payne, Republican, declared: "It was a question of the men, not of the party, that brought about Aldridge's downfall. The tariff had nothing to do with the result."

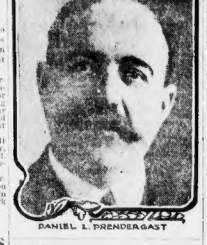
Speaker Cannon declined to be interviewed on the subject, simply saying: "You would better go, if you desire comment in the premises, to citizens of New York State."

PARENTS LOST TO RETURNING STUDENTS

Returning to Boston after two years at St. Joseph's College, Mountico Hills, N. Y., Francis M. Kiley, aged fifteen years, returned to the peninsular district, intending to visit his parents. He went to where he supposed they lived at what was formerly No. 855 East Fifth street and discovered the house had been razed. After making inquiries of the residents of the neighborhood he went to the City Point station, and after the directories and police lists had been minutely perused, started a house-to-house canvass.

TWO OF LEADERS IN THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS DINNER

WM. J. O'BRIEN



DANIEL L. PRENDERGAST

BISHOP RAPS SOCIALISM AS FOREIGN PEST

Socialism was declared a European pestilence which should not be permitted to take root in this country by Rt. Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Boston, at the annual dinner of the Massachusetts State Council, Knights of Columbus, held in the Hotel Brunswick on the evening of Patriots' Day.

State Deputy O'Brien presided at the dinner, which was served in a banquet hall which glowed with continental and national colors. The orchestra played patriotic airs and the toasts and their guests sang the words of inspiring strains from time to time during the dinner.

Mr. O'Brien spoke about the catholic university endowment now before the Legislature and the bill now before the Legislature to make October 12, Columbus Day, a legal holiday.

"It is," he said, "time that at least one day in the year was set apart in honor of the man who discovered the country and who, by that discovery, made all the great things that have come since possible."

In his speech Bishop Anderson said: "If there is any danger that threatens the welfare of this country it is from the false social ideas that now upset the conditions of Europe. The condition of the laboring class in Europe has been so long intolerable that they have finally made a determined battle for existence. The result, as a result, resulting from this struggle, has disturbed all Europe. In the efforts of the laboring class for the improvement and betterment of their condition they have unfortunately been led to extremes by several demagogues and leaders.

"These socialistic leaders have been able to fan lands with the flames of the church in their effort to crush, cripple and enslave the church. They have robbed, confiscated and sold chickens and the property of religious orders without the slightest regard for the rights of the owners.

"Socialism is an exotic plant and should have no root upon the soil of America. There is no room for such European pestilence in this country, where justice is accorded to all."

FINES IMPOSED ON AUTO MEN

For violating traffic rules several men were arraigned before Judge Churchill in the Dorchester District Court to-day on complaint of Patrolman John C. Clarke, an automobile officer. Gerrit Forbes, son of Malcolm Forbes of Adams street, Milton, for keeping his automobile on the wrong side of the street, was fined $3. Charles W. Wilson of No. 222 Eliot street, Boston, same offence, $3; Carl Johansson of Yarmouth street, Boston, for not giving signal with horn, $10; Howard H. Colcord of No. 566 Tremont street, Boston, for not giving signal and overspeeding, $20.

The employes of the Montague Mill at Turner's Falls, Mass., and of the Webster Mill at Oronoo, Maine, not only refused to obey the order to strike, but would not attend the meetings which had been called by the President of the Union.

SCHOONER GIBSON WRECKED; 3 DROWNED

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 20.—The schooner Arthur M. Gibson from New York was wrecked on the Nova Scotia coast today. Three men were drowned. She was a three-masted craft, of 317 tons, built in 1890, commanded by Captain Howard.

FOLEY, SANS WHISKERS, REAL HERO OF RACE

Foley Was There.

By MORTON BIRGE.

Talk about Cameron winning the Marathon, What about Foley, who ran all the way? Though the committeemen said to him, "Never again!"
You are too old and your whiskers are gray.
Did he sit down and moan all by himself alone?
Yes, you don't know Foley, the wily and brave,
He made the race was on, all through the Marathon
Foley is there with his face in a shave.
Foley is fifty-two. Is there a one of you
Equal to Foley in courage and will?
Nerdy the razor laid off each whisker-less son,
Of even the tshape none carry bit.
Never diminishing, close to the finishing,
Never a sign of failure did he pare;
What Dooch a Cameron led in the Mara thon,
Foley was there with his face in a shave.

"It is not the years that count, says Peter Foley of Winchester, the veteran runner, who shaved off his whiskers that he might look young enough for the Marathon race. He carried, run and finished. He was not recognized by many along the course on account of the absence of his whiskers, which he had shaved off the day previous Marathons. He told to-day in the Sunday AMERICAN how he keeps in shape at fifty-two years.

By PETER FOLEY.

How do I keep young at fifty-two? Well, I don't drink. I don't smoke. I don't dissipate. I go to bed early nights. I get up early and get busy. Those are the only things that keep a man's health. It is not the cigars that count.

For training I run when I feel like it. I go on long walks. I keep out in the air as much as I can. I am good for many a Marathon yet.

Last Monday morning, I got a letter from Manager George B. Bowes of the B. A. A. Marathon, notifying me that my name would probably be read out, and that, unless I officially cared something, would appear in my heart.

Right away I thought to myself: My whiskers probably make me look old. So I shaved them off. On Tuesday morning I got a letter from Manager Bowes saying that if my heart was all right come out on Tuesday morning I would be allowed to run.

So I got ready to race. When the time-signals sounded for me he said: "Now remember as normal as that of a youth of twenty." But rather against the rule overpowered me. I replied: "Just watch me in the race." I followed the leaders' pace and finished out the race. I did not overexert myself at all. When I reached Wellesley Hill the calves of my legs began to feel sore, but I did not have a single cramp throughout the run. I did not drink any water, nor did I eat anything. I finished somewhere among the fifties. My time was 3.45, which was fifteen minutes faster than my best time last year. That is only my second second time in that.

I walked into the B. A. A. gym. I was examined again by Dr. Cunningham. He told me that my heart was in even better condition than previous to the race.

I was at work bright and early this morning as usual.

RED SOX READY TO GIVE SENATORS MORE BEATINGS

WOODMAN RETURNS AND TELLS LANGFORD PLANS

Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, blew into town to-day after an absence from Boston of more than three months. He came over from Philadelphia, where yesterday he arranged training quarters for Langford at Merchantsville, N. J., ten miles from Philadelphia. "In No 1 will the champ train for the fight," said Woodman. "They will have a $350 house all ready for Sam and his family by April 1, and I'll begin work with him on April 7. Langford will be in fine shape. He's been taking it easy for a few weeks, but he's now ready to get himself in condition to meet Stanley Ketchel in a six-round bout at Philadelphia on April 27. Woodman says his main is in good shape and expects to put it all over Ketchel.

After the Ketchel bout Woodman and Langford will return to California, where they have three or four matches in sight and on the first of June Langford will join the training camp of Jim Jeffries. Jeffries is keen about having Langford on his staff. The latter having fought Johnson fifteen rounds, will doubtless be able to give the boilermaker valuable pointers.

Woodman says a match between Langford and Tommy Burns has practically been arranged for September 3 in San Francisco. It is billed for forty-five rounds.

Langford's manager will remain in Boston until Friday night, when he returns to Philadelphia. While here he will sign up three or four of the best boys around Boston for matches at Los Angeles—"for Tom Mahoney, the best promoter on the coast," as Woodman expresses it. Woodman says Mahoney took in $52,000 on the three Langford fights in Los Angeles and he figures the same matches would have drawn about $6,000 in Boston. "There is tremendous interest all over the country in the Jeffries-Johnson fight," said Woodman. "They will have a $250,000 house at Reno, and I look for receipts to leave in $160,000. Every room in the big San Francisco hotels has already been engaged.

"There will be four specials go out to the coast from New York alone. One is being arranged by Tom Sharkey, a second by Billy Gibson, a third by Tom O'Rourke, and a fourth by a man named Sankey, from Utica city, will send one or more special trains to the big fight.

"I will be at Reno April 7 and he was in excellent shape. While in the West and in the coast League Langford put four times whaling three battles and getting that ripped decision off Kid Graham that first fight. When Langford got to Flynn the second time he polished him off in eight rounds."

Fierce Ten Round Bout at Armory
LOUGHREY WINS OVER MELLODY

Of all the fighting demons who have performed in the ring at the Armory A. A., Young Loughrey, the Philadelphia whilloper, wins first prize, and he earned all his glory by beating Honey Mellody up last night in their ten-round battle, till Honey appeared as weary as a broken down Manitoba runner.

The decision had to be handed to Loughrey. He had it sewed up and sealed before the bout had been half under way, and the greatest wonder prevailed that Mellody stayed the limit and took the gruelling he did.

Though Mellody lost, he but like a true gamester, and right up till the last bell was making a desperate effort to crash one of his haymakers over, but the some he used to carry, on the ever plowing in Quaker. No loser ever went down to defeat who received greater praise for his grit and Spartan courage. Before till his five spread open and gasping for breath from the awful pace Loughrey was making, he refused to ask for any quarter, but fought back with what limited strength he could muster, and at times drove his enemy back by a sudden burst of fury and his mighty swings.

One Bunch of Action.

Loughrey was a marvel of ceaseless energy. He couldn't seem to get enough of the fighting stuff. Even in his corner between the rounds while his seconds worked over him he was restless to get into action again. Once on the floor he was tearing into Mellody, driving him to the ropes and the limits of the ring, never letting up in his pounding as long as one hand was free. He was a bunch of human dynamite, and he mixed with superhuman strength. When Mellody appeared to land his right and get the sting appeared to arouse the Quaker to greater madness, as he came back with more power and was more dangerous than ever.

There was never an instant Loughrey wasn't working. Even when the referee was breaking the boys apart in the clinches he tried to snap a last one over on some part of Mellody's anatomy, and was grinding his way in again, knowing his strong suit was roughing it to the limit, as there are few who can match him in that style of combat.

Mellody tried to give Loughrey a taste of his own treatment, but was not quite in the same class, and wilted under the savage kind of ring methods that the Quaker thrived on. The Charlestown battler seemed to be groping for a way, trying to land on his Jack-in-the-box foe, whose awkwardness and shifting style baffled most of Mellody, who can usually step along with one of his own type, but the erratic movements of the Loughrey buffaloed him and he made a poor showing in getting to contact with his haymakers, Loughrey adding to his discomfiture by jumping in his torturing Jeffs hooks and jabs to the head that caused Honey to do considerable guessing.

Mellody Took a Beating.

It was a bad night for Mellody. His trifling shiftiness and ring craft were factors of no use against the ripesight like antics of the Quaker slasher, who paid no more attention to Mellody's pokes than if they were paper slugs.

The other bouts on the card, and they were of a high order too, were fairly tame compared to the slaughter-house affair that was spread on the scene when Mellody and Loughrey went at it hammer before the first round was chalked up. Sudden aiding was predicted in each succeeding period at the way the two were slamming away with only one object in view of reaching home with round trip ticket that had no return coming tied to it.

Made a Game Finish.

In spite of the terrific pounding that was going on within the confines of the whole distance there was not a knockdown recorded. Melody sprawled on the mat several times but it was from slips and trips, and not from any haymaker. Loughrey landed the sting appeared to arouse the Quaker to greater madness, as he came back with more power and was more dangerous than ever.

DUTCH CARR FIGHTS STONE

The American Athletic Club directors have made a slight increase in the membership assessment for tonight. This action has been expected for some time, in fact, a larger increase in the cost of dues was looked for than the figure decided upon, which can still be classed as being cheap for the popularity of the Red Sox.

The club holds a show tonight in which five bouts are to be staged, and if the members can continue to have the same quality of bouting as tonight's bill gives, the chances are there won't be many kicks coming.

As has already been announced, Jig Stone and Dutch Carr, the well-known local manipulators of the mitts, are down for the feature in tonight's show, if this affair comes off in the manner of their last mixup, it will be a scream for fair.

Besides Jig Stone and Carr there will be three other bouts, in which three of Lawrence's topnotch performers are to take part. The boys from Lawrence are Big Steve Kennedy, 130 pounds; Kid Wright, 138 pounds, and Kid Thomas, 105 pounds. Pitted against them will be Kid Melbourne of Roxbury; Frank Mack of Roxbury and Tommy Flanagan of Cambridge in the other rounds.

In addition to these, Johnny Cavill and Benny Burke both hailing from the North End, box six rounds.

STRAIGHT DOPE

FOR SPORT FANS

OH, NO, I RECKON THIS OLD TOWN isn't baseball crazy. Fourteen thousand people saw the Red Sox trim the Senators at the morning game yesterday, and more than twice that number at the afternoon session. Speaks a word for the popularity of the game and a whole sermon upon, which can still be classed as being cheap for the popularity of the Red Sox.

AND, BY THE WAY, THOSE RED SOX looked pretty good last year when they made such a gallant fight for the pennant, but they look a whole lot better this season. If they don't land the pennant, but they look a whole lot better this season. If they don't land the pennant, but they look a whole lot better this season. If they don't land the pennant, but they look a whole lot better this season.

JOHN I. TAYLOR DID PRETTY WELL with his fast baseball team yesterday, but he just stuck. Before the game yesterday Taylor told the players that if they won both games he would take them all down to the Armory bouts last night. The Speed Boys are nearly all boxers and Tommy Flanagan of Cambridge is big fans, so they got busy and played the game for all they were worth. You know the result. The entire bunch, even little Jerry, the mascot, was there, and John I. told Charley Greene he could take one of his Boston terriers if he wanted to. John I. gets stuck this way frequently, and he's glad of it. So am I.

I'VE JUST GOT TO SLIP MYSELF another boost as the picking kid. Yesterday morning I gave you my selection on the bouts at the Armory, and if you played them you didn't lose a bet. Two winners and a draw in three bouts that looked mighty close helps a little. Now I think I'd better quit while my reputation is good. This tipping winners is a dangerous thing, especially when there is a mob of you people laying back to give me the ripping smile. Some of these days I'll take an awful slump and get myself in the dub line.

ALECK SULLIVAN, SECRETARY OF the Marlinwe Outing Club, tells me that among those present at the grand ball of that organization at Paul Revere Hall, Mechanics Building, next Thursday will be all of the athletes and boxers of prominence in this part of the State. He even declares that there will be a delegation from one of the four New York, headed by Heinie Rafael, the well-known promoter. From here it certainly looks like some time.

CHARLIE COMISKEY IS SAID TO have said that Ty Cobb is the greatest baseball player of all time. Captain Fred Clarke of the Pirates says that he is associated, and has been for years, with the greatest baseball star who ever shone (Hans Wagner). In Pittsburg last Fall, when Cobb and Wagner met for the first time, just as the Detroit Tigers and the Pirates met in the world's pennant championship series, Cobb said to Wagner that he was glad to meet the king of them all on the diamond. Now there you are. Cobb was wise enough, unselfish enough and well-read enough to give to Wagner the title the records of the past ten years show he has earned, Comiskey or no Comiskey.

D. L. BAGLEY, BOSTON—THANKS FOR your intelligence and gentlemanly call. The printers did their worst on that Goss-Mace stuff. It should have read "1866 for $1000 a side and the English belt." On the other things you refer to you beg before you start; but in spite of your good memory, the mixture you fondly believe is your brain couldn't possibly grasp the ration.

HARRY AUSTIN, TREMONT STREET, Boston—I have no reason to believe they are not all on the level. It's easier and a whole lot safer to be so.

THERE IS A LETTER IN THIS OFFICE for Billy Nixon the Cambridge boxer.

DON'T KNOW A THING ABOUT THIS limit. I'm printing the letter to give the referee and his friends a chance to come back if they care to. I don't know that I remember a referee who was able to satisfy everyone. It's a harder job than umpiring a baseball game, and that's the limit. Here goes:

Straight Dope, Boston American:

In regards to the Tickle bout of Friday, the 13th, as a disinterested spectator, that he beat Belmont all the way, and I think he got the decision. I am not a very unbiased man would, I think, asked, on either side. I am no referee, Mr. Libby, he should keep out of the ring, or I think it will kill the game here if he continues to be the third man in the ring.

Yours, GEORGE POWELL.

No. 407 Essex street, Lawrence, Mass.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Can you tell me the date of the Red Sox-Cleveland game of July 20, 1908. Hoping to see the answer in your valuable sporting room, I remain, yours, truly, OWEN E. LYONS.

The game was played in Cleveland, and Boston won by a score of 4 to 0.

Before and After the Game

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

Can you beat Boston for a ball town? The answer is No! Think of breaking all Boston attendance records in April, and with a ball-end club as an attraction! And the end is not yet. Sure as you're born there'll be larger crowds here before long. It may be necessary to build more seats or new grounds. Something of the sort will have to be done, as there is no stopping the growth of baseball.

That Huntington avenue grand stand could have been sold out twenty times over and there were seats enough to go around. The builders of that ball park did not figure much on the future. For present needs the segment has had to more than double the seating capacity of the grounds. There is little or no room for more seats. What's to be done to accommodate our baseball populace?

Glorious victory, that afternoon game. The kind one doesn't see very often. Everything just right. Heart disease several times and several kinds of heart disease at the finish. It was the tail-end of the batting order that did it. Harry Niles and Hooper did nearly all the business, but we mustn't forget Big Jake, who started things in the seventh, or dill Carrigan, who polished things off in the ninth. Stahl's drive to right in the seventh would have been good for three bases under ordinary conditions, but owing to the great crowd ground rules prevailed, and Jake was allowed two bags. It didn't make any difference, however, as Harry Niles's two-bagger sent Jake home, and a moment later Harry tied up the game by scoring on Hooper's Texas Leaguer, which dropped safely in centre.

When the Senators came back with two more runs in the first of the eighth not thirty men of the 30,000 following 1,007 for the women present believed for a minute that the Red Sox had a chance to win. It was easily a 100 to 1 shot when the Speed Boys came to bat in the last of the ninth.

Stahl, the first man up, went out on an easy grounder to the pitcher. There was a rush for the gates. The stampede stopped when Wagner waited and got a pass. A great cheer arose when Niles planted the ball in the centre field crowd for two bases, putting Wagner on third. It was one run and a bit needed to win. Harry Hooper was the boy to deliver the goods. He placed the pill to centre for a single, scoring Wagner and Niles ran down to second on the throw home.

It was up to Carrigan, and old "Rough" made good with a line drive to left for a single which sent Hooper across the plate with the winning run.

Pandemonium was left at the post. The players made a dash for the runway and were nearly mobbed before they could get there. Hap Myers, the last man to cover, came near parting with his new sweater, but he saved the pieces and himself by a football dive. The mob stood outside the runway and howled as though it sought Myer's blood. The howls were only of gladness, however.

Walter Johnson, the great pitcher, went end somewhat at the end. He relied on his speed and burned the balls directly over the pan. Our fellows were looking for that kind and they pasted the ball for keeps in that last remarkable rally. It was a happy crowd of Red Sox that rushed into the clubhouse after that game.

What are we coming to with both Boston teams whining games like this last one. First the Doves trail along behind the Giants in their opener and then win out with a fine tally, repeating next day, and then along come the Red Sox and duplicate the South End performance. Before long, maybe, an ordinary game of ball will cease to interest us. But we guess any old kind of a ball game will get the Boston fans.

HARVARD PLAYS VIRGINIA TEAM

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 20.—Harvard plays the University of Virginia today.

Hicks will start in the box. He apparently was never in better shape. Last year he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Virginia.

Ernst will be held in reserve for Thursday and Hicks will probably be used again Saturday against Georgetown.

The Harvard lineup will be as follows: Lanigan 3b., McLaughlin 1b., Potter 2b., Mingl, rf., Aronson c.f., Kelly l.f., Carr s.s., Young c., Hicks p.

Geno Brown, formerly of Andover, will probably pitch for Virginia, and Witmer will be kept to pitch against Harvard Thursday. On account of the rather poor showing of Virginia in her earlier games the chances favor two wins for Harvard.

LIGHT WEIGHT SUITS FOR SPRINGY WEATHER

You wouldn't think of buying a straw hat in Winter or a fur overcoat in Summer. Even if you did buy them, you wouldn't wear them and expect to remain outside of the Zoog Zoog factory.

So, in Spring-time, with the maple blossoms shouting verdure all over the limbs of the maple trees and the fairy wand of nature calling the Mayflowers from their Winter's sleep, you should wear a light weight suit and shed the heavy.

We carry the finest line of new Spring-weight fabrics to be found in any tailor shop in Boston. From this big line of goods you can choose a pattern and have a new suit made at a cost of $15 to $25. Everything about the suit will be guaranteed right—the style, fit, wear and workmanship. A man who expects more than that should go somewhere else. We reach our limit on that guarantee, and after 18 years at this location are doing the biggest business of our career. Better come in today or this evening.

Mirandy on Nagging

"Most of Us Is Sore Enough Over Our Mistakes, Widout Havin' It Rubbed In on Us, an' Dat's de Reason Naggin' Should Be de First Cause for Divorsch"

By Dorothy Dix

"SIS MIRANDY," says Hannah Jane, "I'm to me, de odder day, 'Sis' you heard 'bout dat Jedge what give a woman up in Yonkers a divorsch because her husband was always n-naggin' her 'bout de cookin'?

"Bless Gord for dat," says I, "for it done is one crime in dis world dat a possum ought to be linched for if sticks hit is nagg'in'. An' dis opinion goes, male or female, for I was makin' de law, when anybody came up an' asked for divorsch, de fust thing I'd say would be: 'Honey, is he, or she, a real good fust class naggers?'

"An' of de possum add dat de party of de odder part could just stand on dat nuttin' till de cows come home, an' would mind you for de 'leven hundredth time of some mistake you done make, or some fool thing you done fail into, why, den I'd say:

"'Here, you po' persecuted, misunderstood martyr, take dis hesh divorsch an' run hessin', an' go on enjoy yo'self to de full. Don't bother nobe 'bout hurtin' up no ex-respondent, nor say a word 'bout drunkenness, or unfaithfulness, or nuy such trifle matters as dem. Jes' git outer yo' hefin right dahr in de presence of naggin', for in dis hesh court we don't give divorsches for nuthin' but serious offenses.'

Sure Ground for a Divorce

"Yassum, dis my opinion that of any man or woman can prove dat dere husband or wife is throwed up nuthin' to 'em no' dan three times, den dat ought to entitle dat afflicted husband, or wife, to git a divorsch an' shimony right off of de rest."

"Ike laughed hisself sick over de red plush album"

"Sis Mirandy," says Hannah Jane, "dem are perfectly my sentiments, an' while, of I do say hit as shouldn't, of dere is any woman dat he got a good disposition hit is me. Still, I has my suspicions dat de man dat never set down to de table widout somethin' why he never could cook like his ma, would have a mighty pressin' need for de ambulance about de time he done told me dat thing fo' de thousandth time."

"Dat's right. Dem's de true words, Sis Hannah Jane," spons I, "an' I ain't never so filled wid edutration for de courage of men as when I see one of dese hesh he naggers a settin' down eatin' de victims dat his wife han cooked an' dat he's a-grumblin' at whilst he stuffs hisself, an' not a-suspicionen dat maybe she might a-drapped a little rough-on-rats in de hash for seasonin'."

"Woman is a long sufferin' race," says Sis Hannah Jane, "or else dere'd be not widows dan dere is."

"I ain't a blamin' a husband or wife for callin' de odder one's attention to somethin' dat dey'n done wrong; for hits de mission of matermony to keep folks humble, but once is enough, an' twice is too much, an' three times is a call for a divorsch, an' if I wasn't one of dese hesh noble, patient, consider, self-sacrid-ing women, what is a example to dere sex, I'd have one right now in my pocket.

Was Slated to Be a Victim

"Yas, Sis Hannah Jane," says I, 'you sees befo' you one who is a victim to dis terrible vice of naggin', or rather one who was slated to be a victim to naggin' ontil she rip up an' cured her husband of de habit."

"Way, Sis Mirandy," 'sickims Sis Hannah Jane, "you shu'e surprises me, for of dere is one man dat has got de reputation of nee dein' to treat his wife any back talk, hit is Brer Ike."

"To be sho,' to be sho,' 'spons I, 'but hit was not always thus, Sis' Hannah Jane. Dere was a time, when we was fust married, dat one of dese hesh glib talkin' agents come along, an' sell me a fine plush album, an de fust album plush dat took me about forty years to pay for. Well, Ike, he must laugh himself sick over my trade, and ev'y time somethin' says anythin' about a pussun, what was born a sucker, Ike, he up an' tell about dat plush album.

"An' dat warn't all! Ev'ey time I ast him for fo' bits, to buy some po'k chops or to pay for de chillen's shoes, he thug dat red plush album at me again.

"Yassum, I spent years an' years a-tal he done seemed to lose interest in dat

"But I found de cure to stop his naggin' for all time"

dodgin' dat red plush album, an' bit begin to git on my nerves, to always be nagged about dat fool trade; an' so one day, when Ike began to discourse again on dat red plush album, I let loose wid hit an' busted hit over his hade.

"Yassum, I'se a sectrigorous woman when I gits rilled, and after I done wo' de red plush album to a frazzle on him I des used what come handiest in de furniture line, an by de time he got out of de porsplole tale, about how I got took in by de agent, an' he ain't never mentioned red plush album to me since."

While the Rolling Pin Is Handy

"Maybe dat woman, whose husband nagged her about her cookin' wouldn't a needed to got no divorsch of she had used up a few skillets an' flings on her husband," says Sis Hannah Jane.

"Maybe not," says I, "but hit's mighty hard to break a nagger, bezase dey'd rather nag dan eat. Howsomever," says I, pleasiy, "as long as my good right arm hold out an' de rollin'-pin was in workin' order I would try to do my duty by 'em."

"I've seed plenty of wimmen dat didn't need to take a back seat behind no man when hit come to naggin'," says Sis Hannah Jane.

"Dat's right," spons I. "I know women, dat has been married to men for thutty years, an', in all dat time, dey ain't never let dem po' men have a single smoke in peace. I knows odder women, dat are still remindin' dere husbands of de overcoat dey lent some fellow, ten years ago, an' dat he never brought back; an' odder women dat tells dere husbands over, every day of dere lives, how, of he hadn't a made de wrong trade, or lost his pocketbook in de year '76, dat dey might be able to have a flower bonnet now.

Great Gift of Some Women

"I'd seed men nagged into de po' house, an' nagged into bein' drunkards, an' nagged into de grave, an' still de good work goes on; for hits generally de women, dat is devoted wives, an' mothers in Israel, what's got de most gift at nagg'in'."

"Well dere ought to be some way to stop de naggers, wheddor dey has got on petticoats or britches," says Sis Hannah Jane.

"Or to deliver folks from 'em," spons I, "an' dat's de reason I'se in favor of makin' naggin' de first cause of divorsch. Most of us is sore enough, over our mistakes, widout havin' hit rubbed in on us how big a fool we has been."

The Story of Woman; Her Original Position

Our readers will study with interest five short articles on the history of woman prepared by the Rev. Mr. Sawyer. The writing of these articles follows careful reading and thinking. We publish the first to-day. The others will follow.]

By REV. ROLAND D SAWYER.

NOT only does the science of biology show that the female type of life is the first and fundamental, and the male merely her assistant, but careful study shows that the earliest forms of society gave woman an equally high position.

The first step toward society was the gathering into groups of early men and women for mutual protection and helpfulness. These groups chose the better climates, the more luxurious vegetation, and thus supplied by these products of nature they lived in comparative ease, innocence and happiness.

This was the Edenic state of mankind, as found in the traditions of all early peoples. Women roamed with men in their hunting trips, and during periods of confinement and child nurture were as tenderly cared for as is the female animal by her male mate.

The woman had sole charge of the young; she was the head of the family; her children and descendants looked to her as the head of the family; the family was matriarchal. She was more important than man.

Because she could not wander about owing to these children—as well as men, she made the beginnings of the human home. She learned the beginnings of agriculture, weaving, tanning, domesticating animals, and all the branches of industry that have spelled human progress. She ground corn for bread, turned wild food to hens, tamed and milked cows and goats, cultivated plants, planted seed, and in so doing was turned from which has sprung the flower of civilized life.

In this early human society woman was the queen of this crude family life, home, and also in all clannish or tribal association that grew up about it.

Man was subordinate.

At that time the female human did what Darwin says the female animals all seem to do—she exercised the right of selection, she sent away the mate she objected to and accepted the attractive to her.

The elder women, the grandmothers, were the heads of society. Woman, because of her greater worth, was the honored sex. The loss of a man from the group counted for but little; the loss of a woman meant much.

Such was woman's original position.

SOME BIBLE STATISTICS

SOMEONE of a statistical inclination has discovered the following about the Bible:

The number of letters in the Bible, King James version, is 3,566,480; number of words, 773,692; verses, 31,173; chapters, 1,189; books, 66.

The word "and" occurs 46,277 times, the word "Lord" 1,855 times, the word "reverence" but once, which is in the ninth verse of the 111th Psalm; the word "Jehovah" 5,840 times, the word "girl" but once, which is in the third verse of the third chapter of Joel.

The longest book in the Old Testament is Psalms, it having 150 chapters; the shortest is Obadiah, which has one chapter.

The longest in the New Testament, Matthew and the Acts, each consist of twenty-eight chapters, although Luke contains more words. Third book of John is the shortest, having one chapter, fourteen verses, 296 words.

The longest chapter in the Old Testament is 119th Psalm, of 176 verses. The shortest chapter is 117th Psalm, which contains two verses.

The longest chapter in the New Testament is the first chapter of Luke, which has eighty verses. The shortest is First John, first chapter, which has ten verses.

The longest verse in the Old Testament is the ninth verse of the eighth chapter of Esther, ninety words, 425 letters. The shortest verse is the twenty-fifth verse, first chapter 1st Chronicles, which has three words, twelve letters.

The middle verse of the Bible is the eighth verse 118th Psalm.

The nineteenth of 2d Kings and the thirty-seventh verse of Isaiah read alike. All of the verses of the 136th Psalm end alike.

Eleventh is spoken of once, in Isaiah, fifty-seventh chapter, fifteenth verse.

There are no names of more than six syllables in the Bible.

The Book of Job is the oldest.

The twenty-first verse of the seventh chapter of Ezra consists of the letters of the alphabet with the exception of J.

Chantecler Hose! the Latest

Fashion's latest decree is that women must wear red stockings to match their Chantecler hats.—NEWS ITEM.

"What is that awful noise I hear?" asked Cabby-On-Parade.
"It's that new-fangled ladies' hose," the Taxi-Driver said.
"What makes them all so noisy like?" asked Cabby-On-Parade.
"The fashion is to have them red," the Taxi-Driver said.

The Chanteckler decree has gripped the girls from head to feet;
A rooster sits upon their hats, red stockings walk the street:

The asphalt sidewalk's gettin' soft
beneath the awful heat,
And the sun he hides his face now in the morning.

"What makes that poor man stagger so?" asked Cabby-On-Parade.
"He's stricken blind, he's stricken blind," the Taxi-Driver said.
"What made him lose his sight so quick?" asked Cabby-On-Parade.
"He caught a flash of crimson hose," the the Taxi-Driver said.

Curious chappies no more stand around on Windy days—
The scooter hats and macarine hose are the fashion for their gaze;
On afternoons on Tremont street you think the street ablaze,
And the cold gray dawn is red now in the morning.

Beware These Poisons; Use the Antidotes

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HERE are a few poisons to fight shy of, girls!

Perhaps you think that you are old enough, and wise enough, to keep away from poisons, but you're not, my dears. There are insidious poisons that the oldest and wisest of us don't recognize.

There are, for instance, the poisons of foul air and fatigue.

When the poison of foul air gets into your lungs it makes you susceptible to all sorts of disease. It is a poison that sags your life blood and leaves your cheeks pasty and unhealthy looking and your eyes dull.

There is no greater robber of good looks than foul air.

Foul air includes that other poison, fatigue. You can be healthy tired by a long walk in the fresh air or by hard outdoor work, but there is no poison in that fatigue. The fatigue that poisons is that which comes from working in company with dozens of people in airless rooms.

What Fresh Air Will Do

The wise, far-sighted employer knows that fresh air means good work, and he sees that his workrooms are well ventilated.

There are poisonous foods, too—foods that you like, perhaps, but that are indigestible. Every girl who snatches a hurried luncheon of soggy pie and coffee is poisoning her digestion and making herself a victim of nervous indigestion.

Milk, eggs, soup and rice are all as cheap as pie and coffee, and far more wholesome. Try them for a change.

Of all the blessings that can be bestowed upon you, health is the most precious. A healthy body makes a healthy heart. If you are tired and miserable, dragging yourself from one duty to the next, you cannot be blamed if you fail to appreciate the blue of the sky and the gold of the sun.

But if you are strong and well, no work seems too hard, and you are happy merely through the joy of existence.

By avoiding some of the poisons I have mentioned you may do a lot toward securing health and happiness.

There Are Mental Poisons, Too

So much for the bodily poisons; now for the mental.

There are envy, hatred, gossip, bad temper (that's a violent poison), uncharitableness, unkindness; oh, there are many, many of them.

The day you take a dose of bad temper poison is the day for you and everyone with whom you come in contact. Bad temper is a far-reaching poison, for, under its influence, things are done and said which cannot be recalled.

A spoonful of gossip may poison the life of some one of your acquaintances.

You all know how hatred can poison the head and disfigure the face.

And envy: no poison is more biting and corrosive than envy.

Uncharitableness is a cold, slow poison that destroys and paralyzes the heart.

There is another mental poison, the poison that suggests impure and vulgar thoughts and puts a wrong meaning and conception on things. It is a nauseous and unwelcome poison; keep it out of your hearts, my girls.

The Great Antidote for All

Kindness is the great antidote for all mental poisons.

Try to keep both mind and body pure and wholesome.

A healthy mind and a healthy body mean happiness; try and get it, and hold it.

Pretty Cook's Gentle Hint to the Grocery Boy

By KENNETT HARRIS

THE grocery boy waited until the pretty cook had finished stirring the oil into her mayonnaise dressing and then cooged impressively.

"Afore we begin the reglar order of business, Evelina," he said, "it becomes my painful duty to give you the straight dope on that milkman."

"Wait a minute and I'll get you the hammer," said the pretty cook.

"A hammer wouldn't make a dent in him," declared the grocery boy. "He's too tough."

"If he's any tougher than that tenderloin steak your butcher sent me yesterday, you ought to go tell the police about him instead of me," returned the pretty cook. "The stove is still here, anyway."

"That's probably because you stick around so close," remarked the grocery boy. "I suppose he's never told you that he was a married man?"

"I don't remember that he ever did," answered the pretty cook. "Perhaps it was because it slipped his mind."

"Maybe," agreed the grocery boy. "It wouldn't be surprising, he goes home so seldom, from what they tell me. I hear that there ain't one of his seven children knows him to speak to. They've seen him, but they ain't acquainted."

Some Classy Knocking

"I should think that their mother would introduce 'em some time," said the pretty cook, "but that ain't all you've got against him?" she asked.

"What would you think of a man who would water the milk in his own baby's bottle?" demanded the grocery boy.

"I guess if he wasn't a milkman he wouldn't be so much to blame," answered the pretty cook. "It would be a sort of second nature to him to do it, just as it comes natural to him to tramp all over my clean floor with your muddy shoes.

"I had a kind of an idea that you loved the ground I walked on, Evelina," said the grocery boy.

"I do, more or less, and principally less," replied the pretty cook. "I'd just as soon you'd leave it outdoors though."

"I s'pose you've thought of his poor wife," resumed the grocery boy.

"Whose poor wife?" asked the pretty cook.

"The milkman's, of course," replied the grocery boy. "His poor, hard-working, suffering wife that he neglects and abuses."

"Well, I certainly haven't thought much about her. You see I've got all my Summer clothes to think about, and that's as much as I can manage besides what we're going to eat. What's eggs to-day?"

"They're a kind of a thing the bess ang dan eat. Howsomever," says I, pleasiy, "as long as my good right arm hold out an' de rollin'-pin was in workin' order I would try to do my duty by 'em."

"I've seed plenty of wimmen dat didn't need to take a back seat behind no man when hit come to naggin'," says Sis Hannah Jane.

"Dat's right," spons I. "I know women, dat has been married to men for thutty years, an', in all dat time, dey ain't never let dem po' men have a single smoke in peace. I knows odder women, dat are still remindin' dere husbands of de overcoat dey lent some fellow, ten years ago, an' dat he never brought back; an' odder women dat tells dere husbands over, every day of dere lives, how, of he hadn't a made de wrong trade, or lost his pocketbook in de year '76, dat dey might be able to have a flower bonnet now.

Great Gift of Some Women

"I'd seed men nagged into de po' house, an' nagged into bein' drunkards, an' nagged into de grave, an' still de good work goes on; for hits generally de women, dat is devoted wives, an' mothers in Israel, what's got de most gift at nagg'in'."

"Well dere ought to be some way to stop de naggers, wheddor dey has got on petticoats or britches," says Sis Hannah Jane.

"Or to deliver folks from 'em," spons I, "an' dat's de reason I'se in favor of makin' naggin' de first cause of divorsch. Most of us is sore enough, over our mistakes, widout havin' hit rubbed in on us how big a fool we has been."

"Let me see," replied the grocery boy. "They generally have a white shell on the outside of them and a chicken on the inside if you keep 'em till they get ripe. You can get a dozen of 'em for less than a dollar."

"They must be getting cheap," observed the pretty cook. "I guess you can bring me a couple of dozen if they don't cost any more than that."

"Take a can of condensed milk," urged the grocery boy. "You can get the real article that way and you don't have to trust back stairs cluttered up with cross-eyed milkmen."

"Oatmeal," dictated the pretty cook, "half gallon N'y Orleans molasses, half a pound of ginger, pound of tea—uncolored Japan, bottle of cider vinegar, a quart of navy beans and two cans of tomatoes."

"Ker-ect," said the grocery boy, "I'll have 'em right over. You must be goin' to make a pudding, but as I was saying about that milkman, when he tells you you're the only one, he's just trying to fool you. You better get a cross-eyed man yet that could hold up his head and look you straight in the face, even if he was single. Another thing, he wouldn't appreciate good cooking. Beefsteak-and-onions knows him to speak to. They've seen him, but they ain't acquainted."

Some Classy Knocking

"I should think that their mother would introduce 'em some time," said the pretty cook, "but that ain't all you've got against him?" she asked.

FRECKLES

April Worst Month for This Trouble. How to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly every body freckles in April, but happily there is also a cure for these ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get one ounce of othine, double strength, from Houghton & Dutton, and apply a little of it at night, and in the morning you will see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they will stay all Summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Money back if othine fails.

GOLD DUST Makes Hard Water as Soft as Rainwater

Every good housewife knows the value of nice, soft rain-water for washing clothes and for all cleansing purposes. It isn't always convenient to secure rain-water, however. Neither is it necessary. Gold Dust will soften the hardest water, take out the mineral substances and make it so near like the water that falls from the clouds that you couldn't tell the difference.

Think what this means to you on wash-day. There's a deal of difference between the action of hard and soft water for all cleansing. Just a little Gold Dust added to the water renders it soft and brings out the greatest cleansing value.

Try it the next time you wash clothes or dishes. Gold Dust really cleanses so easily that it relieves housework of all its drudgery.

GREAT LABOR PLAY WINS AT THE SHUBERT

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

There is no getting away from it—the playwright with sociological germs in his genius pays sincere tribute to the distance he travels with his subject when in the logic of his argument. When you see an author up over the conflict between labor and capital it is much better to dig the shore than to venture into deep water, as you discovered of the Shubert theatre last evening, when the problem was treated discreetly and eloquently by the new theatre players in John Galsworthy's "Strife."

Mr. Galsworthy didn't carry you to a definite finish, but led you right up to a consummation that gave keen and logical speculation to the fancy of those who like to see the most striking play of the season—but that doesn't mean that it is necessarily the best that will present itself in this direction. By that time you were Mr. Galsworthy was not without logical argument—he gave both sides the same and differentiated and finished the play by supplying the ringleaders from the start.

Two Strong Characters.

"Strife" was made in England, but for American consumption the scene is transferred to Northern Ohio, where the tin industry, run to excess by a strike that was simply nothing on its merits. The play centred in interests of unorganized workers, for you felt best acquainted with the three assortment characters that held the stage.

Mr. Galsworthy selected all of his characters to the two strikers' leaders, in Anthony Wilder, who was responsible for the formation to crush the striking workmen, and David Roberts, the striker leader, who fought on principle and not for principle. It was opportunity slipped digging hard, for both were finally smashed and had to be beat by the men they were trying to lead by the men they were trying to lead. They were a victim of their own power.

The performance was capital in every respect.

Trouble—And to Spare.

Mr. Bruning's Roberts was an agitator but didn't reserve much force in striking pose. He was eloquent and convincing to a degree that has not been exceeded during the season. Ferdinand Gottschalk and William M. Ivey supplied the only warmth in the cold atmosphere, and you may be sure it did not pass disappreciated. Miss Olive Wyndham, Mrs. Bevery Sothgreaves and Miss Hallie Boulton made the feminine responsibility in roles that required little exertion.

"Strife" developed strength and vital interest at the start and held it to the end.

The bill will again be changed to-day when "Trust" and "Nicky Baldwin" will be given at matinee and evening performances.

Give Your Stomach A Chance

To Furnish the System the Necessary Fluids to Drive Dyspepsia from the Stomach.

A Trial Package Free.

You should give to your stomach the chemicals it needs to restore tone, vigor and health to the gastric fluids.

Food contains all those ingredients so necessary, and when the stomach is in a normal condition it separates these ingredients as it should and manufactures its own digestive agents, but when its fluids are filled with acids and alkalies that irritate everything they come in contact with, it does not get the food it should and cannot make its own juices correctly.

Science has proven just what is most necessary to the stomach to produce the correct gastric fluids and to make of digestion a naturally pleasant duty.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so made as to give the stomach the highest chemical properties to aid digestion. These tablets are made up from pure fruit and vegetable essences, and this is the formula: Hydrastis, Golden Seal, Lactose, Nux, Asceptic Pepsin (the highest digestive known), and Jamaica Ginger. Its preparation peculiarly preserves the full strength of these ingredients, so that they go into the stomach strong and capable of digesting food of any character. Forty thousand physicians use and prescribe them. Ask your doctor his opinion of the formula above. Every druggist sells them, price 50 cents per box, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

SOCIETY GIRL DEFIES HOODOO IN WEDDING

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

It certainly is a delight to find a girl sensitively indecisive-superstitious and conventional as pretty Beatrice Ayer, who, despite the fact that the month of May and Friday have been tabooed by order from earlier recollection as fatal for weddings, has decided to be married both for her marriage to Lieutenant George S. Patton, Jr., the date fairly decided upon being Friday, May 27. Miss Ayer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Commonwealth avenue. The wedding is to take place at the family country estate, "Avalon," at Pride's Crossing, and a large house party will be entertained.

The prospective bride-elect is a pretty, dainty blonde, will no foundling in her bridal robes, which are said by those who have caught a glimpse of them to be exquisite.

Miss Katherine Ayer is to serve as maid of honor, and Frederick Ayer, Jr., who graduates from Harvard next June, is to be one of the ushers.

Lieutenant Patton is of the Fifth U. S. Cavalry, now stationed at Fort Sheridan. He and his bride will leave shortly for Chicago at the conclusion of the honeymoon. The Ayers have already closed their town house and are at their seaside villa for the remainder of the season.

Colonel E. D. Benton has generously given the use of his fine estate on Dudley road, Brookline, for an out-door performance of "As You Like It," to be presented by the post-graduate class of Radcliffe college on Saturday, May 14, for the benefit of the Masonic home at Charlton. The grounds will be open at 4:30 o'clock, and a musical concert will be given on the English garden from 5 until 7. Tea and supper will also be served.

Mrs. Samuel D. Warren and her family, who have been for the winter at Manchester-by-the-Sea, have gone to Marlboro at once, into their beautiful country place at Red Ian for the Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Luce and their children will close their town house on Marlboro street, the first of the week, and go to their Summer place at Cohasset for the Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Windsor of Rutland have sailed for London, where they will spend several weeks as guests of relatives. They will also make a call in Paris for placing their children in a school in England.

Mrs. Frank Warren and her daughter, Miss Marjorie Warren, of Mt. Vernon street, have also sailed and will join Mrs. Hamilton Osgood, Mrs. Warren's mother, on the other side.

Another well-known society girl who, like Miss Ayer, has defied superstition and chosen May as her wedding month, is Miss Elizabeth Greene of Marlboro street, who on May 28 is to wed Samuel Eliot Morison of Brimmer street. The ceremony is to take place in Trinity church at noon. Miss Greene's sisters and bridesmaids and Miss Valerie Greene and her brothers are F. Gerry and Quincy Shaw Greene. Mr. Morison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes Morison, and is a Harvard man, class of '08.

Miss Adelaide Jackson, president of the Vincent club, who has been visiting in New York, has returned home and is busy with the club rehearsals.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gray of Chestnut hill and their two daughters, Miss Rosamond Gray, are at Virginia Hot Springs, Va., for an extended stay.

A concert was given at the Tuileries yesterday for the benefit of the Free Home for Consumptives. The artists were Mrs. Arthur Hall, soprano; Miss Lucia Fowle Barth and Carl Paetzen, pianists; Leon Van Vliet, 'cellist, and Henrie Shaw, accompanist.

Among Bostonians in New York on the fourth-breed wedding was Lawrence Hampton, who is a close friend of the Drexels, having cruised with them in their yacht off Newport on several occasions.

The Misses Marie and Eulalie Issigo are among prominent Bostonians sailing for Europe this week. They are going over especially to see the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

SOCIETY SECRETS TOLD—Why one woman left it to become a Gypsy Queen will be told in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

WIFE ON THE OCEAN AS HUSBAND DIES

LOWELL, April 20.—The wife of John de Sairenca, a Lowell mill worker, who has been in this country about two years, is on the ocean to-day on her way to America from Portugal. The husband whom she is coming here to join died yesterday in St. John's Hospital after a sudden illness. John de Sairenca came to Lowell some two years ago. He was industrious and he left in the old country his wife and two children. Last July he sent word that he could bring her to the new world. She sailed on No. 20 Bedford street until taken ill this week.

CRIPPLED BOSTON STEAMER PORTS

LONDON, April 20.—The British steamer Englishman arrived at Queenstown having in tow the British steamer Anglian. Tugboats will take the Anglian to her destination. The Anglian, which left Boston April 1 for London, broke her tail shaft when 840 miles west of Fastnet, April 8. She was reported at that time in tow of the Englishman, which sailed from Portland, Me., March 31, for Bristol.

PRINCESS LOUISE PAYS UP DEBTS

BRUSSELS, April 20.—The jewels of the late Queen Marie Henriette which were held by the creditors of Princess Louise have been given up to the princess. Her debts having been settled out of the civil list of King Leopold. Princess Louise immediately offered a diadem to her sisters, if they would restore friendly relations. Both refused, however, unless she would break with Count Mattachich.

GIVE UP PARADE TO AVOID STRIKE CLASH

PITTSBURG, April 20.—A strike battle was averted to-day at the Schoenville plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company, when 1,000 strikers returned to work individually. It had been planned to have them march to the plant, with an American flag in the van. The larger number of men are still out.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

BISHOP LAWRENCE TO ACT AT DEDICATION

Bishop Lawrence will dedicate the transept of All Saints' Church, Brookline, and the new parish house to-morrow evening.

The parish house adjoins the church and cost $50,000. It is a three-story building, equipped with a gymnasium, reception rooms, a large auditorium, a kitchen and Sunday school accommodations. At the close of the dedication, the rector, the Rev. Dr. D. P. Addison, with the wardens and vestry, will hold a reception.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

The stock market has shifted back into the leading news spots and all the news seems to run little or no effect upon the values.

$ $ $

Corn seem to fluctuate in every way but that of the promise, and hardly advances a cent before it declines a cent, and declines a cent before it advances a cent, whether the price listed will show at the close they know no more than we are able to give to-day.

$ $ $

About the only thing discussed in Boston circles is the unfavorable action of Attorney General Wickersham in advising the directors of the boats in the various coast to coast lines that they must sell their holdings in the Harriman lines or be subject to action by the State Department that is going to enforce the Sherman anti-trust law. Of course, the directors are not going to do anything of the kind. If it is a question of maintaining the dividends or selling the stock, they will hold the stock. It is a good deal easier, what kind of a stock it is, to keep the dividends coming than it is to get the money by the foundation of the stock. Another proposed great "copper merger" will no doubt be the next thing to be discussed, but this is former security talk.

$ $ $

Although the director of officers of the Steel Trust has expressed an opinion as to the probable dividend action, it is understood that the directors will not take up the declaring of the common stock. Broker were surprised at the public announcement in the list of names to which Steel stockholders will be entitled to vote. Only 1 stockholder in one of the fifty largest of the corporation appears here on the list.

$ $ $

Owners of Federal Mining and Smelting had a cheerful supper this morning, when they opened their mail and found an extra dividend check for $1 a share from the Federal company and the Bunker Hill & Sullivan company has been compounded to pay a dividend of 50 cents a share for the same time the treasury of the Federal Company.

$ $ $

The level of 96 is now being predicted for American Smelting, which is getting to be a favorite with the traders. Its recent profits would not be bad of the best grade, it is said, considering the way it has mounted very quickly, and predict that the dividend will be increased to the annual rate. There is some comment on the absence in the dividend rate, but it does not attract much attention.

$ $ $

W. F. Bartholomew of Thompson, Toole & Co. is to-day in three weeks' trip, which includes visits to the Globe, Arizona, district and the Big Copper Camps.

$ $ $

The Franklin Mining report for January and February will show a profit of about $245,000. The company produced 1,215,320 pounds of copper, and from January 1 to March 31 the total should reach 2,000,000 pounds, about half of which will be profit. Most of the ore mined this company will be carried to the mill.

$ $ $

Copper in London is decidedly weak, the price having declined £3 10s since Monday morning. It opened to-day £61 5s, and this morning.

$ $ $

Gold to the amount of $4,000,000 will be shipped to Europe this week, the principal shipment of $2,000,000 to South America. The latter the total exports for the week will be about $6,000,000, of which $4,000,000 is for London.

DULL TRADING IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 20.—Price fluctuations were narrow and trading extremely dull in the stock market to-day. Reports of the unfavorable opinion of Attorney General Wickersham in advising the directors of the Harriman lines to sell their holdings in the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific companies, or be subject to action by the State Department that is going to enforce the Sherman anti-trust law, had little effect upon the market. Union Pacific was irregular in fractional dealings, but showed a net gain of 1/4 point. Southern Pacific was slightly higher, what kind of a stock it is, to keep the dividends coming than it is to get the money by the foundation of the stock. Another proposed great "copper merger" will no doubt be the next thing to be discussed, but this is former security talk.

Although the director of officers of the Steel Trust has expressed an opinion as to the probable dividend action, it is understood that the directors will not take up the declaring of the common stock. DO YOU THINK THESE ARE THE BEST FICTION?

Didn't that list surprise you? Those they were the twenty-five novels that have been mentioned most frequently up to date as the great "Best Novels" contest, or more "Lit Movielize" handed the list as the twenty-five novels that are now among the stars in the sky.

Votes for favorites are pouring in by the hundreds, letters mentioned the closing are climbing up, slowly but surely, and the next announcement of the standing lists will be adjudged by a committee of three literary people.

Choose "Best Novels" Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Don't forget to vote for your favorite novel, and don't forget to mention your reasons.

"Man Without a Country."

Mr. Movels Editor:

Please find your approval a list of the twenty-five most talked-of novels, interesting and edifying novels:

"Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," by Harriet Beecher Stowe.

"Ben Hur," by Lew Wallace.

"Lorna Doone," by R. D. Blackmore.

"Vanity Fair," by William Makepeace Thackeray.

"Ivanhoe," by Sir Walter Scott.

"Les Miserables," by Victor Hugo.

"Last Days of Pompeii," by Bulwer-Lytton.

"Quo Vadis," by Henryk Sienkiewicz.

"Romola," by George Eliot.

"Romola" Leads This List.

Mr. Movels Editor:

Following is a list of ten novels which some go to make up the twenty-five:

"Romola," by George Eliot.

Microbes Cannot Think or Read

If They COULD Read and Think They Would Contemplate William Waldorf Astor with Amazement

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

This country possessed and gladly disowns an individual named William Waldorf Astor.

The penniless ancestors of this gentleman came to America, got their fingers and their titles on a great deal of real estate in New York City. They left this charming William Waldorf Astor person a hundred million dollars or more—to-day it is much MORE.

And now William Waldorf Astor, a second-hand, second-rate British subject, lives in London—spends his money there—pays an income tax there to help support the British navy and army, and keeps on drawing the millions annually from this country.

Mr. Astor—perhaps you saw the announcement—has expressed his intention to contribute "an unlimited amount" to fighting tuberculosis IN LONDON.

It makes Mr. Astor feel sad to think how many little British children die of consumption needlessly. He wants to stamp out consumption in the British Islands, just as hydrophobia has been stamped out there.

Presumably you know that a case of hydrophobia is practically unknown in England. They have killed all the infected dogs; they haven't any mawkish talk about hydrophobia not being REAL, and, if you try to take a dog into England, they keep him in quarantine for months to show that he hasn't any hydrophobia. Consequently, NO HYDROPHOBIA THERE.

Mr. Waldorf Astor means to do in England against consumption what has been done in England against hydrophobia.

Let us be glad of Mr. Astor's determination. If he will kill off the germs of tuberculosis in England, there will be fewer germs sent from England here. And no matter WHERE he does good, every decent American is glad to have him do it.

If he should spend ALL of his money fighting tuberculosis and not pay a dollar of it in income tax to keep up the British navy—that same navy compelling us to keep up a big navy—we might forgive him for spending over there so many millions earned here.

We say that it is fortunate for the peace of mind and placid tranquility of the American tuberculosis germ that that microscopic being cannot think very much, if at all, and certainly cannot read.

The New York germ of tuberculosis—he lives in New York in billions—would be very much puzzled if he could read the news about Astor's fight on the tuberculosis germ in England.

The little American tuberculosis germ would say to himself: "How strange and cruel! Billions of us little tubercular fellows are hanging on the walls of William Waldorf Astor's tenements in New York. Many billions of us enter the lungs of little American children, whose fathers and mothers pay rent to William Waldorf Astor. Yet he is very kind to us.

"He doesn't open a window to let in the sunlight that we hate, UNLESS HE IS COMPELLED TO DO IT BY LAW. He doesn't tear down these nice old buildings in which we have lived and bred for so many years.

"How can it be that he is so cruel to our little tubercular brothers in England?

"Why does he spend his money HERE to develop us, BREED us, increasing by thousands those little graves of children that prove our energy, and at the same time fight against our germ brothers in England? It is very puzzling."

As the germs of tuberculosis CANNOT think, they don't say those things to themselves.

But, the American citizen CAN THINK, and he ought to think and say those things to HIMSELF when he realizes that the money which women scrape together to pay for their children's lodgings, the money that comes from rotten buildings that breed disease, is sent to England and used over there to fight disease in a country that gives Astor nothing—EXCEPT THE PLEASURE OF LICKING THE BOOTS OF A FEW TITLED PEOPLE.

Certainly this country ought to be glad that Mr. Astor is spending money for fighting tuberculosis in England.

But more certainly and more emphatically the people of this country ought to COMPEL HIM TO SPEND EVERY DOLLAR NECESSARY TO FIGHT CONSUMPTION IN AMERICA, AND IN NEW YORK CITY, WHENCE HIS MILLIONS GO TO ENGLAND.

If he can afford to give the money to the English with a smile, and probably get eventually a title from the English King for his kindness, AMERICA OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO AFFORD TO TAKE THE MONEY OUT OF HIM AND MAKE HIM SPEND IT HERE, NOT ACCORDING TO HIS OWN SWEET WILL, BUT IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE FROM WHOM THE MONEY COMES.

It isn't too soon to begin thinking of a very large income tax for the individual who takes his money from this country and spends it abroad.

The bewilderment of those little tubercular germs would be great, if they could understand what Astor is doing—BREEDING consumption on Manhattan Island and FIGHTING consumption beside the Thames.

And the bewilderment of those microbes would be greater still if they could be made to understand that human beings over here haven't the energy to fight against such a shameful contrast.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

WOULD AID IRISH PARTY

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The cable news reports that Sir Robert Anderson has an article in Blackwood's Magazine on "Parnellism and Crime," and that "the Irish party insists on inquiry into the plot that sought to hang Parnell."

I want to support the Irish party in that object, and I demand an investigation. If the House of Commons agrees to the investigation I will go over and, with permission, address the committe and answer all questions.

I charge that Scotland Yard is not only responsible for the dastardly attempt to murder Parnell and Dillon, and through them the Irish party and the Irish cause, but is also responsible for the murder of Lord Frederic Cavendish and Mr. Burke in Phoenix Park in May, 1882; for the murder of Dr. Cronin, the Irish patriot, in Chicago; for the "Mitchelstown outrages," and for the plots against my life.

I wish to add that I support Mr. John E. Redmond and the Irish Parliamentary party in their efforts to win Home Rule for Ireland.

MICHAEL CORCORAN.

ORIGIN OF "MUCK RAKER"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In a recent issue of your paper, the question was raised: "Who originated the expression Muck Raker?" If those who are interested will read Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," wherein it describes Christian's travels from the City of Destruction to the Celestial City, they will read how he met the man with the "muck rake," who never lifted his head, but kept raking, although there was a golden crown suspended over him.

The first edition appeared in 1678, written while Bunyan was in Bedford prison.

Yours truly,

BOTTLED MILK MEANS SAVING OF BABIES' LIVES

By John Lovett Morse, M.D.

Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Harvard Medical School; Associate Physician at the Children's Hospital and at the Infants' Hospital; recently physician to the Floating Hospital, and chairman of the Milk Commission of the Suffolk District Medical Society.

A CIRCULAR signed by J. J. Crowley, W. J. O'Brien and A. H. Wood, Committee of Consumers and Dealers, has recently come into my hands. It seems to me to so misrepresent the commendable regulation of the Board of Health to prevent the sale of loose milk or milk from a dip-tank that I cannot refrain from writing you on the subject.

The object of the Boston Board of Health in requiring the bottling of milk was to improve the character of the milk furnished to the poor people, and in that way to prevent, or diminish, the number of babies that are sick and die of diarrhoeal diseases; not to increase the cost of milk or to benefit a milk trust, providing there is such a thing in Boston, which I am inclined to doubt.

It is true that this regulation applies more particularly to the milk which is now sold in small amounts to the poorer people, because those that are well-to-do, knowing the advantage of bottled milk over loose milk, now compel their dealers to deliver their milk bottled without any regulation of the Board of Health.

To Protect Sick Babies

It is possible that bottling the milk will increase to a small extent the cost to the consumer. I do not believe, however, that this will be so, because bottling the milk will diminish the amount of handling and, consequently, the cost. The circular states that the stores "really sell at cost" and thus prevent the larger dealers from putting up the price of milk. This may be true, but it has not been my experience that stores are doing business for their health or for that of anybody else.

It is the boards of health, the physicians, the nurses and the hospitals, not the small stores, that are working for the health of others.

The circular states that "no epidemic of disease has ever been traced to store milk sold from the dip-tank, but that many diseases have been traced to the bottle milk." If such is the case, it is because it is possible to trace bottled milk while impossible to trace store milk sold from the dip-tank.

Minimizes Contagion's Danger

The contagion of disease is very seldom carried by the containers of milk that almost always by the milk itself. It is almost invariably introduced into the milk by some person ill himself with the contagious disease, such as scarlet fever or diphtheria, who is handling the milk. Consequently the less number of times the milk is handled, the less is the danger of contagion.

Loose, or dip-tank milk, is handled and exposed to infection many more times than is bottled milk.

Moreover, the cases of contagious diseases which are contracted from the use of contaminated milk are comparatively few, while the number of babies that are made sick or are killed by the use of dirty milk is innumerable. Every time that the milk is handled or exposed to the air the opportunity is given for the entrance of the germs which cause the diarrhoeal diseases. It is hardly possible to imagine greater opportunity for the entrance of these germs than is afforded by the constant opening and dipping from a tank of milk in order to sell small quantities at a time.

It is stated in the circular that the milk can be kept cooler and kept from souring better in a dip-tank than when bottled and that "bottled milk will warm up easier and sour quicker." This statement is absolutely untrue. Whether the milk is kept cool or not depends entirely on whether it is kept in a cool place or not. It is just as easy to keep a bottle of milk cool as it is a tank of milk; in fact easier, because the bottle is not opened, while the tank is.

It is also stated that a bottle is harder to wash than a dip tank. This, of course, is not true. It is probably true, however, that the bottle seems harder to wash because it is washed, while the dip tank is not hard to wash because it is seldom, if ever, washed.

It is stated that at present people can buy one or two cents' worth of milk at a time, whereas with the bottled milk it would be necessary to buy at least a pint at a time. It may be true that people can get one or two cents' worth of milk at a time. I doubt, however, if this is often done. Moreover, a pint of good, clean, bottled milk is less likely to spoil and injure the baby than is a small amount of milk from an infected tank. The circular states that the bottles would have to be charged for at the stores and that, therefore, the consumer would have to pay an extra price. The extra charge for the bottle would be refunded, however, when the bottle was returned, and as a family would use many every day there would be but one charge in the beginning.

The circular also states "that a great many scientific men and doctors do not believe in bottled milk nor that this bottling regulation would be of any benefit, but, in fact, an injury to the health of the children." I cannot believe that this statement is true. There are certainly no statements of this sort in medical literature, and I know of no physicians who take this stand. I feel sure that it would be very difficult for the authors of the circular to prove the statement.

Costs No More to Sell It Right

The circular also states that "if this regulation is carried out it will drive many small dealers and storekeepers out of the business of selling milk." I hardly see why this should happen, because people will have to use milk just the same, and costs no more to handle, sell and keep bottled milk cool than it does loose milk.

Having taken up some of the points in the circular, I wish to say a word or two about the dangers of dirty milk. Every one knows that a large number of babies die of the diarrhoeal diseases during the Summer. Almost none of these babies are nursed. They are practically all fed upon the bottle. Very few of the babies that are fed on good, clean milk have these diseases or, if they do, have them in a severe form.

Almost all of the babies that have them and that die, are fed on milk that has not been properly cared for, and has consequently been infected with the germs which cause these diseases. These germs enter the milk when it is being handled. Every time that the milk is handled the opportunity for their entrance is increased.

Every time, therefore, that milk is dipped out of a dip-tank the milk is further contaminated and the danger of its use by babies is increased. The danger of contamination is rendered greater by the fact that the dipper is generally dirty.

These germs increase more rapidly in number if the milk is not kept cold. It is very difficult to keep the milk in a tank, which is opened frequently, cool enough to prevent the growth of bacteria. The danger from the milk are consequently greatly increased in this way.

Thousands of poor babies are treated in our hospitals during the Summer as a result of drinking bad milk such as I have described.

If it were not for these babies there would be very few patients in the children's hospitals during the Summer, and the Floating Hospital would be unnecessary.

The object of the Board of Health in establishing this regulation was to diminish the number of sick babies and the number of deaths from infected milk, not to increase the price of milk or enable any one to make more money.

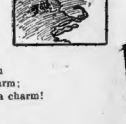
CATCH the spirit in the air,
Boost your town.
When in public, when at prayer,
Boost your town.
Here's a battle-cry of worth
That will bring about new birth:
"Boston's the best place on earth!"
Boost your town!

Pessimism's out of place,
Boost your town.
Buoyant souls win in the race,
Boost your town.



When in city or on farm
Help your critics to disarm;
Mere suggestion works a charm!
Boost your town.

Talk about your glowing health,
Boost your town.
Point to those who roll in wealth,
Boost your town.
Show that in the hall of fame
Boston should be the first name;
Be alive! Get in the game!
